Preface	xi
Chapter 1. Language Matters	1
1.1 Languages for Theory Building	1
1.2 Using Dynamic Logic	5
1.3 Partial Memberships: Fuzziness	12
1.4 Organizational Ecology	18
1.5 Unification Projects	21
PART 1. AUDIENCES, PRODUCERS, AND CODES	27
Chapter 2. Clusters and Labels	29
2.1 Seeds for Categories and Forms	32
2.2 Domains	34
2.3 Similarity	37
2.4 Similarity Clusters	41
2.5 Labels	47
2.6 Extensional Consensus	52
2.7 Complex Labels	56
Chapter 3. Types and Categories	59
3.1 Schemata	60
3.2 Types	65
3.3 Intensional Semantic Consensus	67
3.4 Categories	69
3.5 Intrinsic Appeal and Category Valence	71
Chapter 4. Forms and Populations	78
4.1 Test Codes and Defaults	79
4.2 Taken-for-Grantedness	82
4.3 Legitimation and Forms	84
4.4 Populations	85
4.5 Density Dependence Revisited	89
4.6 Delegitimation	96
Chapter 5. Identity and Audience	100
5.1 Identity As Default	101

5.2	Multiple Category Memberships	107
5.3	Code Clash	109
5.4	Identities and Populations	110
5.5	Structure of the Audience	111
PART 2. NONMONOTONIC REASONING: AGE DEPENDENCE		121
Chapter 6. A Nonmonotonic Logic		123
6.1	Beyond First-Order Logic	124
6.2	Generalizations	127
6.3	Nonmonotonic Reasoning	130
6.4	A Précis of the Formal Approach	133
6.5	Chaining Probabilistic Arguments	142
6.6	Closest-Possible-Worlds Construction	143
6.7	Falsification	145
Chapter 7. Integrating Theories of Age Dependence		150
7.1	Capability and Endowment	152
7.2	First Unification Attempt	157
7.3	Obsolescence	161
7.4	Second Unification Attempt	163
PART 3. ECOLOGICAL NICHES		169
Chapter 8. Niches and Audiences		171
8.1	Tastes, Positions, and Offerings	174
8.2	Category Niche	177
8.3	Organizational Niche	178
8.4	Fundamental Niche	183
8.5	Implications of Category Membership	186
8.6	Metric Audience Space	187
Chapter 9. Niches and Competitors		191
9.1	Fitness	191
9.2	Realized Niche	193
9.3	Niche Overlap	194
9.4	Niche Width Revisited	198
9.5	Convexity of the Niche	203
9.6	Environmental Change	206
Chapter 10. Resource Partitioning		209
10.1	Scale Advantage	210
10.2	Market Center	214
10.3	Market Segments and Crowding	215
10.4	Dynamics of Partitioning	220
10.5	Implications of Category Membership	226

CONTENTS	ix
PART 4. ORGANIZATIONAL CHANGE	229
Chapter 11. Cascading Change	231
11.1 Identity and Inertia	232
11.2 Organizational Architecture	235
11.3 Cascades	236
11.4 Architecture and Cascades	239
11.5 Intricacy and Viscosity	246
11.6 Missed Opportunities	248
11.7 Change and Mortality	253
Chapter 12. Opacity and Asperity	256
12.1 Limited Foresight: Opacity	256
12.2 Cultural Opposition: Asperity	261
12.3 Opacity, Asperity, and Reorganization	265
12.4 Change and Mortality	268
Chapter 13. Niche Expansion	271
13.1 Expanded Engagement	271
13.2 Architectural and Cultural Context	276
13.3 Age and Asperity	278
13.4 Distant Expansion	279
13.5 Expansion and Convexity	281
Chapter 14. Conclusions	286
14.1 Theoretical Unification	287
14.2 Common Conceptual Core	289
14.3 Inconsistencies Resolved	291
14.4 Theoretical Progress	293
14.5 Empirical Implications	298
Appendix A. Glossary of Theoretical Terms	305
Appendix B. Glossary of Symbols	313
Appendix C. Some Elementary First-Order Logic	321
Appendix D. Notation for Monotonic Functions	331
Appendix E. The Modal Language of Codes	334
Bibliography	339
Index	355
