

Table of contents

Introduction	1
I. Corpus-based studies
No doubt and related expressions: A functional account Anne-Marie Simon-Vandenbergen	9
On certainly and zeker Pieter Byloo, Richard Kastein and Jan Nuyts	35
Prenominal possessives in English: Function and use Evelien Keizer	59
Ditransitive clauses in English with special reference to Lancashire dialect Anna Siewierska and Willem Hollmann	83
'It was you that told me that, wasn't it?' It -clefts revisited in discourse María de los Ángeles Gómez-González	103
Another take on the notion Subject Dik Bakker and Anna Siewierska	141
The modal auxiliaries of English, π -operators in Functional Grammar and "grounding" Louis Goossens	159
The king is on huntunge : On the relation between progressive and absentive in Old and Early Modern English Casper de Groot	175
II. The architecture of functional models
Mental context and the expression of terms within the English clause: An approach based on Functional Discourse Grammar John H. Connolly	193
Adverbial conjunctions in Functional Discourse Grammar Kees Hengeveld and Gerry Wanders	209

Tree tigers and tree elephants: A constructional account of English nominal compounds	227
Matthew Anstey
English constructions from a Dutch perspective: Where are the differences?	257
Arie Verhagen
Notes towards an incremental implementation of the Role and Reference Grammar semantics-to-syntax linking algorithm for English	275
Christopher S. Butler
Grammar, flow and procedural knowledge: Structure and function at the interface between grammar and discourse	309
Peter Harder
The non-linearity of speech production	337
Michael Fortescue
A speaker/hearer-based grammar: The case of possessives and compounds	353
Theo A. J. M. Janssen
Index	389