

Contents

	Preface	vii
	Acknowledgments	ix
CHAPTER 1	The Internet and the Public Sphere	1
	Public Communication and New Media Activism	7
	The Effects of Online Public Discourse: Three Examples	8
	Media Shift and the Need for Research of Online Public Discourse	12
	Work on Online Public Discourse in Composition Studies and Technical Rhetoric	14
	Work on Online Public Discourse in Communication Studies	19
	Conclusion	22
CHAPTER 2	Online Rhetoric: A Medium Theory Approach	25
	Reception: The User's Experience	28
	Source: The Rise of the Authorless Message	33
	The Versatility of the Web and the Fragmentation of the Message	36
	Time: Web Text as Ephemeral	37
	Space: The User as Spatial Wanderer	40
	Conclusion	41
CHAPTER 3	The Field Dependency of Online Credibility	45
	The Author, Ethos, and Source Credibility in Rhetoric	46
	Research Findings on How Users Judge Web Site Credibility	50

	A Field-Dependent Model for Judging Web Site Credibility	52
	Indymedia: Alternative News and Distributed Credibility	57
	Authorship as Authority	59
	The Field Dependence of Message Credibility on the Indymedia Site	61
	Credibility Judgments as Reflected in Users' Comments	63
	Conclusion	66
CHAPTER 4	Interactivity: The Golden Fleece of the Internet	69
	Interactivity: Sorting It Out	71
	A Useful Taxonomy of Interactivity	75
	The 2004 Election and Online Campaigning	77
	Online Interactivity on MoveOn.org	77
	Online Interactivity on Georgewbush.com	81
	The Future of Online Campaigning?	86
	Conclusion	87
CHAPTER 5	Intertextuality and Web-Based Public Discourse	91
	Intertextuality Then and Now	92
	Early Conceptions of Intertextuality: Kristeva and Bakhtin	95
	Intertextual Variations	97
	The Reader and the Intertext	102
	Jibjab.com: Intertextuality at Work	107
	"This Land Is Your Land"	108
	Intertextual Commentary on "This Land"	109
	"The Drugs I Need"	111
	Intertextual Commentary on "The Drugs I Need"	113
	Adbusters: Media Activism and Culture Jamming	115
	The Benetton Ad	116
	The Blackspot Campaign	118
	Conclusion	119
CHAPTER 6	Conclusion	121
	Examples of Texts Cited	129
	Notes	133
	Works Cited	139
	Index	153