

Contents

Contents	VII
List of Figures	IX
Foreword by David Bordwell	X
Acknowledgments	XIV
Chapter 1 The Problem of Point of View	1
1. Narration and Narrative	1
2. Two Theories: Point of View as Perception and as Attitude	5
3. Point of View as Identification	9
4. Point of View as Language	14
5. Point of View as a Logic of Reading	16
Chapter 2 Film as System	29
Chapter 3 Narration	39
1. Narration as Symbolic Activity	39
2. Levels of Narration	42
3. Two Ways of Reading: By Error or by Hypothesis	50
4. Elements of Classical Representation	56
5. The Elements of Representation in Film	61
Chapter 4 Subjectivity	73
1. Subjectivity as Narration	73
2. The Classification of Subjectivity into Types	76
3. Types of Subjectivity	79
4. Mental Process Narration	85
5. The Problem of Color and Sound	94
Chapter 5 The Point-of-view Shot	103
1. The Elements of POV	103
2. The Framing of POV	109
3. A Repertory of Simple Structures	111
Chapter 6 Character Reflection and Projection	122
1. Metaphorical Framing	123
2. Character Reflection	127
3. Character Projection	132

VIII Contents

Chapter 7 The Modern Text: Subjectivity under Siege from Fellini's 8 1/2 to Oshima's The Story of a Man Who Left His Will on Film	143
1. Origin: The Problem of Authorship	146
2. Vision: The Status of the Image	151
3. Time: The Relation of Narration and Narrative	155
4. Frame: The Relation of Spectator and Spectacle	157
5. Mind: Toward a Redefinition of Character	159
Chapter 8 Metatheory	168
1. Empiricist Versus Rationalist Theories of Point of View and the Process of Embedding	168
2. Recent Approaches to Narration	174
3. Summary of My Theory of Narration	176
4. Some Functions of Narration	180
Appendix Orthodox Theories of Narration	190
1. Orthodox Literary Theories of Point of View and a Fatal Distinction: Telling Versus Showing	190
2. Hugo Münsterberg and Film Psychology	196
3. André Bazin: Point of View as a Real Condition of Vision	198
4. The Categories of Jean Mitry	212
5. From Literature to Film: Narration as Consciousness	216
Suggested Further Reading	231
Index	233

List of Figures

Chapter 4

- Figure 1 Types of Subjectivity in Classical Film Narration Defined as the Interaction of Three Variables 98
- Figure 2 The Relation of Four Types of Subjectivity and Two Types of Objectivity in Classical Film Narration Where Time is the Textual Present 99

Chapter 5

- Figure 1: Alternate Sites for the Location of Shot B (Point/Object) Following Shot A (Point/Glance) 118

Chapter 7

- Figure 1 A Semantic Square Illustrating One Thematic System of 8 1/2 and its Four Conclusions 163

Appendix

- Figure 1 Wayne Booth's Major Categories for the Analysis of Literary Point of View 195
- Figure 2 Norman Friedman's Major Categories for the Analysis of Literary Point of View 196
- Figure 3 Bruce Kawin's Major Categories for the Analysis of Filmic Point of View 221