

Contents

Preface ix

1	Language
1.1	What is language?	I
1.2	Some definitions of 'language'	3
1.3	Language-behaviour and language-systems	8
1.4	Language and speech	11
1.5	The semiotic point of view	17
1.6	The fiction of homogeneity	24
1.7	There are no primitive languages	27
	Further reading	31
	Questions and exercises	31
2	Linguistics
2.1	Branches of linguistics	34
2.2	Is linguistics a science?	37
2.3	Terminology and notation	46
2.4	Linguistics is descriptive, not prescriptive	47
2.5	Priority of synchronic description	54
2.6	Structure and system	59
	Further reading	64
	Questions and exercises	64
3	The sounds of language
3.1	The phonic medium	66
✓ 3.2	Phonetic and orthographic representation	69
3.3	Articulatory phonetics	72
3.4	Phonemes and allophones	84
✓ 3.5	Distinctive features and suprasegmental phonology	89
3.6	Phonological structure	95
	Further reading	98
	Questions and exercises	98

4	Grammar
4.1	Syntax, inflection and morphology	100
4.2	Grammaticality, productivity and arbitrariness	104
4.3	Parts of speech, form-classes and grammatical categories	109
4.4	Some additional grammatical concepts	113
4.5	Constituent-structure	117
4.6	Generative grammar	124
	Further reading	129
	Questions and exercises	131
5	Semantics
5.1	The diversity of meaning	136
5.2	Lexical meaning: homonymy, polysemy, synonymy	144
5.3	Lexical meaning: sense and denotation	151
5.4	Semantics and grammar	156
5.5	Sentence-meaning and utterance-meaning	163
5.6	Formal semantics	170
	Further reading	175
	Questions and exercises	176
6	Language-change
6.1	Historical linguistics	179
6.2	Language-families	184
6.3	The comparative method	192
6.4	Analogy and borrowing	201
6.5	The causes of language-change	207
	Further reading	213
	Questions and exercises	213
7	Some modern schools and movements
7.1	Historicism	216
✓ 7.2	Structuralism	218
7.3	Functionalism	224
7.4	Generativism	228
	Further reading	235
	Questions and exercises	236

8	Language and mind
8.1	Universal grammar and its relevance	238
8.2	Mentalism, rationalism and innateness	242
8.3	Language and the brain	248
8.4	Language-acquisition	251
8.5	Other areas of psycholinguistics	257
8.6	Cognitive science and artificial intelligence	262
	Further reading	264
	Questions and exercises	264
9	Language and society
9.1	Sociolinguistics, ethnolinguistics and psycholinguistics	266
9.2	Accent, dialect and idiolect	268
9.3	Standards and vernaculars	276
9.4	Bilingualism, code-switching and diglossia	281
9.5	Practical applications	286
9.6	Stylistic variation and stylistics	290
	Further reading	297
	Questions and exercises	298
10	Language and culture
10.1	What is culture?	301
10.2	The Sapir-Whorf hypothesis	303
10.3	Colour-terms	312
10.4	Pronouns of address	317
10.5	Cultural overlap, cultural diffusion and translatability	322
	Further reading	329
	Questions and exercises	330
	Bibliography	333
	Index	351