

TABLE OF CONTENTS

A Acknowledgment.

B Foreword

Volume I On language

C Introduction

(1) Sciences, humanities, and the place of linguistics (1967) 5

D On language

(a) Language and man

(2) Homo loquens: an ethological view (1970) 25

(3) Noam Chomsky's Language and mind (1971) 48

(4) Systematic and sporadic sound-change (1985) 61

(b) Language and history

(5) On prehistoric linguistic expansion (1956) 65

(6) Linguistic expansion and diversification (1957) 75

(7) Proto-Indo-European reality and reconstruction (1959) 90

(8) The nature and use of proto-languages (1961) 97

(9) Linear B, Greek, and the Greeks (1960) 112

(10) Names and realities in prehistoric linguistics of Italy (1957) 122

(11) Spoken and Written Latin (1950) 131

(c) Language and writing

(12) Phoneme and grapheme: a parallel (1951) 141

(13) Graphic and phonic systems: figurae and signs (1965) 149

(14) The typologies of writing systems (1976) 163

(d) Language and metrics

(15) Ut musica poesis (1975) 181

(e) Retrospect

(16) In pluribus prima: Elise Richter (1865-1943) (1979) 209

E References for Volume I