

Contents

Foreword
	Barbara Adam	ix
Contributors		xiii
Introduction
	Robert Hassan and Ronald E. Purser	1
PART 1. Time in the Network Society
1	New Temporal Perspectives in the “High-Speed Society” Carmen Leccardi	25
2	Network Time Robert Hassan	37
3	Speed = Distance / Time: Chronotopographies of Action Mike Crang	62
4	Protocols and the Irreducible Traces of Embodiment: The Viterbi Algorithm and the Mosaic of Machine Time Adrian Mackenzie	89

PART 2. Digital Time: Temporal Dimensions of Media and Culture

- 5 Truth at Twelve Thousand Frames per Second:
The Matrix and Time-Image Cinema
Darren Tofts 109
- 6 The Fallen Present: Time in the Mix
Andrew Murphie 122
- 7 Stacking and Continuity:
On Temporal Regimes in Popular Culture
Thomas Hylland Eriksen 141

PART 3. Temporal Presence

- 8 Indifference of the Networked Presence:
On Time Management of the Self
Geert Lovink 161
- 9 The Presence of Others: Network Experience
as an Antidote to the Subjectivity of Time
Jack Petranker 173
- 10 CyberLack
David R. Loy 195

PART 4. Time in the Network Economy

- 11 Time Robbers, Time Rebels: Limits to Fast Capital
Ben Agger 219
- 12 Finding Time and Place for Trust in ICT Network Organizations
Hans Rämö 235
- 13 The Clock-Time Paradox: Time Regimes in the Network Society
Ida H. J. Sabelis 255
- Index 279