

Notes on contributors

xi

Acknowledgements

xiii

■ 1 Introduction

1

JILL NELMES

PART ONE: INSTITUTIONS, AUDIENCES AND TECHNOLOGY

■ 2 Cinema as institution

7

SEARLE KOCHBERG

Introduction

The origins of the American film industry 1900–15

The studio era of American film 1930–49

Case study 1: Warner Brothers

The contemporary film industry (1949 onwards)

Case study 2: a major US production, Jaws (1975)

Case study 3: a low- to medium-budget UK production,
Fellow Traveller (1989)

Film audiences

Censorship and classification

Case study 4: US – The Hays Code

Case study 5: UK censorship – interwar and Second World War

Case study 6: UK contemporary – Platoon (1986)

Conclusion

Notes

Further reading

■ 3 Film: the place where art and technology meet

61

CHRIS WEBSTER

Introduction

In the beginning

Computer animation and computer-generated imagery

Other ways of seeing

Film and politics

Shaping society

Virtual reality

Further reading

Further viewing

PART TWO: APPROACHES TO STUDYING FILM TEXTS

■ 4 Film form and narrative

87

ALLAN ROWE

Introduction: the act of viewing

Case study 1: RoboCop

Case study 2: beginning of Keaton's film The General

Cinematic codes

Mise-en-scène

Setting

Props

Costume

Performance and movement

'Putting into the scene'

Lighting

Camera and camera movement

Editing

Sound

Narrative

Case study 3: If – an alternative text

Notes

Further reading

Further viewing

■ 5 Genre, star and auteur: an approach to Hollywood cinema

121

PATRICK PHILLIPS

Introduction

Case study Part 1: New York, New York

Genre

Case study Part 2: The problematic musical – New York, New York as genre film

Stars

Case study Part 3: New York, New York – clash of the stars

Auteur

Case study Part 4: Scorsese and New York, New York

Film, audience, dialogue

Notes

Further viewing

PART THREE: GENRE FORMS: REALISM AND ILLUSION

■ 6 The documentary form: personal and social 'realities'

167

PAUL WELLS

What is documentary?

Some developments in non-fiction film

From travelogue to authored documentary

Case study 1: Robert Flaherty

From social commentary to propaganda to poetic actuality

Case study 2: Humphrey Jennings

Propaganda as documentary myth

Case study 3: Leni Riefenstahl

From documentary bias to direct cinema and cinéma vérité

Case study 4: Frederick Wiseman

From radical documentary to television and diversity

Notes

Further reading

Further viewing

■ 7 Animation: forms and meanings

193

PAUL WELLS

Introduction

What is animation?

Early animation

Orthodox animation

Case study 1: Duck Amuck (1953)

Case study 2: Girl's Night Out (1986)

Developmental animation

Case study 3: Creature Comforts (1990)

Case study 4: Neighbours (1952)

Case study 5: Daddy's Little Bit of Dresden China (1987)

Experimental animation

Case study 6: A Colour Box (1935)

Case study 7: The Nose (1963)

Case study 8: Deadsy (1990)

Conclusion

Notes

Further reading

Further viewing

PART FOUR: REPRESENTATION OF GENDER AND SEXUALITY

■ 8 Women and film

221

JILL NELMES

No job for a woman – a history of women in film

Feminist film theory and practice in Britain

Case study 1: Red Flannel, Mam (1988), Otherwise Engaged (1991)

Case study 2: A Question of Silence (1982)

Case study 3: Sally Potter, film-maker, The Gold Diggers (1983), Orlando (1993)

Notes

Further reading

Further viewing

■ 9 Lesbian and gay cinema

257

CHRIS JONES

Representation

Definitions and developments – homosexual and gay

Audiences

Lesbian and gay film festivals

Gay sensibility

Lesbian and gay film study

Critical rereadings

Some films with gay themes

Case study 1: Victim (Basil Dearden, UK 1961)

Case study 2: Desert Hearts (Donna Deitsch, US 1985)

Case study 3: Looking for Langston (Isaac Julien, UK 1988)

Case study 4: The Living End (Gregg Araki, US 1993)

Conclusion: A queer diversity

Further reading

Further reading for teachers

Further viewing

Useful addresses

PART FIVE: NATIONAL CINEMAS

■ 10 British cinema: representing the nation

293

LEZ COOKE

Introduction

What is British cinema?

The nation, national culture and national cinema

Contextual and comparative analysis

Representation, ideology and hegemony

Four aspects of representation
Representations of class in early British cinema
The concept of national cinema in the 1930s
The popular entertainment cinema of the 1930s
The documentary movement in the 1930s
Oppositional cinema in the 1930s
Notions of 'independence' in British cinema
British cinema in the 1980s
Redefining national identity
Notes
Further work
Further reading
Further viewing

■ 11 The Soviet montage cinema of the 1920s

329

MARK JOYCE

Introduction: why study the Soviet cinema?
Historical background
Pre-revolutionary Russian cinema
Soviet cinema and ideology: film as agent of change
Economics of the Soviet film industry
Form: montage
Other features of the Soviet montage cinema
The key Soviet montage film-makers of the 1920s Case study 1: Lev Kuleshov, The Extraordinary Adventures of Mr. West in the Land of the Bolsheviks (1924) Case study 2: Sergei Eisenstein, Strike; Battleship Potemkin; October; Old and New Case study 3: Vsevolod Pudovkin, The Mother; The End of St. Petersburg
Case study 4: Alexander Dovzhenko (1894–1956), Arsenal (1929); Earth (1930)
Case study 5: Esfir Shub, The Fall of the Romanov Dynasty (1927)
Audience response
Theoretical debates: montage vs realism
Postscript to the 1920s
Notes
Further reading
Further viewing

■ 12 An introduction to Indian cinema

365

ASHA KASBEKAR

Introduction
The narrative structure

History of the popular Hindi film
Case study 1: Mehboob Khan (1904–64)
Case study 2: Raj Kapoor (1926–88)
Case study 3: Bimal Roy (1902–66)
Case study 4: Guru Dutt (1925–64)
Case study 5: Satyajit Ray (1921–92)
The distribution network
Satellite television
The influence of Hollywood
Conclusion
Recommended viewing
Further viewing

■ 13 New German Cinema

393

JULIA KNIGHT

Introduction
The American legacy
The development of the film subsidy system
The artisanal mode of production
The quest for alternative images and counter-representations Case study 1: Yesterday Girl
Sponsorship or censorship?
Conclusion
Notes
Further reading
Further viewing
Glossary of key terms
Bibliography
Index

429

439

451