
Contents

	Preface	v
Chapter 1.	Language as an Object of Study	1
Part I: Channels of Communication		15
Chapter 2.	Introduction	17
Chapter 3.	Phonemes and Their Representations	25
Chapter 4.	Articulatory Phonetics	37
	(Appendix: Consonant Phonemes of French, German, Spanish, Russian, and Hindi-Urdu)	51
Chapter 5.	Suprasegmentals	60
Chapter 6.	Phonological Theory	69
Chapter 7.	Other Types of Signals	80
Chapter 8.	Speech and Writing	88
Part II: Form and Function		101
Chapter 9.	The Study of Grammatical Structure	103
Chapter 10.	Grammatical Description	114
Chapter 11.	Ultimate Constituents: Words and Morphemes	130
Chapter 12.	Representing Morphemes	139
Chapter 13.	Transformational Grammar	152
		iii

Part III: Meaning	171
Chapter 14. Approaches to the Study of Meaning	173
Chapter 15. Meaning and Culture: Some Semantic Domains	186
Chapter 16. Meaning and Culture: Analytical Approaches	199
Chapter 17. Techniques of Semantic Description	214
Part IV: Sociolinguistics	231
Chapter 18. The Study of Language in Its Social Context	233
Chapter 19. The Social Status of Linguistic Variants	254
Chapter 20. Sociolinguistic Methods	266
Part V: Historical–Comparative Linguistics	275
Chapter 21. Linguistic Change	277
Chapter 22. Background Factors and Mechanisms of Linguistic Change	289
Chapter 23. Comparison and Reconstruction	305
(Appendix I: List of Words for Lexico–Statistic Dating)	314
(Appendix II: Principal Language Families of the World)	316
Part VI: Applied Linguistics	319
Chapter 24. Linguistics and Language Teaching	321
Chapter 25. Language Planning	334
Bibliography	342
Index	354