

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Editors' Preface	ix
SECTION ONE Various Views of Language	1
1 Hermann Paul: Language and Organisms: An Analogy	3
2 F. de Saussure: Language: 'A well-defined object'	6
3 J. R. Firth: Personality and Language in Society	15
4 B. F. Skinner: Verbal Behaviour	22
5 Noam Chomsky: Language and Mind	25
SECTION TWO Functions of Language	29
6 David Abercrombie: Paralinguistic Communication	31
7 J. L. Austin: Speech Acts	37
8 Roman Jakobson: Functions of Language	53
9 M. A. K. Halliday: 'A rich and adaptable instrument'	58
SECTION THREE Varieties of Language	67
10 D. Chrystal and D. Davy: Stylistic Analysis	69
11 C. A. Ferguson and J. D. Gumperz: Variety, Dialect and Language	91
SECTION FOUR Language as a Symbolic System	101
12 B. L. Whorf: Linguistic Relativity	103
13 J. A. Fishman: The Whorfian Hypothesis	114
14 John B. Carroll: Linguistic Relativity and Language Learning	126

SECTION FIVE Linguistics and the Study of Language	145
15 W. S. Allen: The Linguistic Study of Languages	147
16 John Lyons: The Scientific Study of Language	162
17 Victor H. Yngve: On Achieving Agreement in Linguistics	178
SECTION SIX Linguistics as a Scientific Study	185
18 Martin Joos: Difference and Similarity: Principles of Linguistic Classification	188
19 Leonard Bloomfield: Objectivity in Linguistics	194
20 Charles F. Hockett: Linguistic Prediction	199
21 L. Hjelmslev: The Aim of Linguistic Theory	202
22 M. A. K. Halliday, P. D. Strevens and A. McIntosh: The Relation between Observation and Theory	209
23 Noam Chomsky: A Theory of Competence	212
24 Jerrold J. Katz: Mentalism in Linguistics	225
SECTION SEVEN Linguistics and Language Teaching	231
25 Noam Chomsky: The Utility of Linguistic Theory to the Language Teacher	234
26 M. A. K. Halliday: Syntax and the Consumer	241
27 William F. Mackey: Applied Linguistics	247
28 Peter S. Rosenbaum: The Validity and Utility of Linguistic Descriptions	256
29 Sol Saporta: Scientific Grammars and Pedagogical Grammars	265
30 Pit Corder: Linguistics and the Language Teaching Syllabus	275