

CONTENTS

12. NOUN PHRASES . . . . .	465
12.1. Introduction: Nouns and modifiers . . . . .	465
12.2. Relative ordering of elements within the noun phrase . . . . .	467
12.2.1. Rigid ordering within the noun phrase . . . . .	467
12.2.2. Ordering flexibility in the noun phrase . . . . .	473
12.3. Coding coherence or 'unification' of the noun phrase . . . . .	475
12.3.1. Preamble . . . . .	475
12.3.2. Morphological binding of the noun phrase . . . . .	475
12.3.2.1. Grammatical agreement within the noun phrase . . . . .	475
12.3.2.2. The agreement of nominal predicates . . . . .	479
12.3.2.3. Noun modifiers used as anaphoric pro- nouns . . . . .	481
12.3.3. Scattered noun phrases: Morphological vs. temporal binding . . . . .	482
12.4. Complex noun phrase: Semantic and syntactic 'source' . . . . .	485
12.5. NP conjunction . . . . .	487
12.5.1. Joint participation in a single event: Logic vs. lan- guage . . . . .	487
12.5.2. Relative order of conjoined NPs: Logic vs. language . . . . .	488
12.5.3. The morphological unification of conjoined NPs . . . . .	490
12.5.3.1. Feature conflicts and their resolution . . . . .	490
12.5.4. The placement of the conjunction morpheme . . . . .	495
12.5.5. Group nouns and their agreement . . . . .	497
12.6. Noun phrases arising through nominalization . . . . .	498
12.6.1. Preamble: Adjustment in the finite clause prototype . . . . .	498
12.6.2. Nominalized verb form, tense-aspect and verb agreement . . . . .	499
12.6.3. The adjustment in the case-marking of the subject and direct object in the nominalized clause . . . . .	501

12.6.3.1. Preamble . . . . .	501
12.6.3.2. English: The double-genitive strategy . . . . .	501
12.6.3.3. Indirect objects: Universal no-tampering strategy . . . . .	503
12.6.3.4. The single-genitive strategy: Biblical Hebrew . . . . .	504
12.6.3.5. The no-tampering strategy: Tamil, Avar, Chinese . . . . .	505
12.6.4. Determiners in nominalized clauses . . . . .	506
12.6.5. Adverbs as adjectives in nominalized clauses . . . . .	507
12.6.6. Noun complements: Nominalized complex clauses . . . . .	508
12.6.7. Word-order in nominalized clauses . . . . .	510
12.6.7.1. Preamble . . . . .	510
12.6.7.2. German: OV word-order in subordinate clauses . . . . .	510
12.6.7.3. Biblical Hebrew: VS in subordinate clauses . . . . .	512
13. VERBAL COMPLEMENTS . . . . .	515
13.1. Introduction . . . . .	515
13.2. The semantics of complementation . . . . .	516
13.2.1. Preamble . . . . .	516
13.2.2. The sub-components of event integration . . . . .	517
13.2.2.1. Preliminaries . . . . .	517
13.2.2.2. Implicativity, co-temporality and control . . . . .	520
13.2.2.3. Intent, control and agentivity . . . . .	521
13.2.2.4. Control and temporal separation . . . . .	523
13.2.2.5. Direct contact and spatio-temporal separation . . . . .	523
13.2.2.6. Resistance, effort and independence . . . . .	525
13.2.2.7. Event integration: Causation vs. implication . . . . .	525
13.2.2.8. Referential integration/cohesion . . . . .	526
13.2.2.9. Authority and manipulative speech-acts . . . . .	527
13.2.3. From preference to epistemics . . . . .	528
13.2.4. From cognition to utterance . . . . .	530
13.2.5. From indirect to direct quote . . . . .	531
13.2.6. Modality verbs . . . . .	532

13.2.6.1. Preamble . . . . .	532
13.2.6.2. Referential cohesion and event integration	534
13.2.6.3. Implicativity . . . . .	534
13.2.6.4. Strength of intent . . . . .	535
13.2.6.5. Habituality, know-how and equi-subject	535
13.2.6.6. The final transition . . . . .	536
13.3. The syntactic coding of complementation . . . . .	537
13.3.1. Recapitulation . . . . .	537
13.3.2. Syntactic devices used to code complementation .	538
13.3.2.1. Preamble . . . . .	538
13.3.2.2. Co-lexicalization ('predicate-raising') . .	538
13.3.2.3. Case-marking of the complement subject	546
13.3.2.4. Verb morphology or finiteness . . . . .	549
13.3.2.5. Subordinating morpheme . . . . .	552
13.3.2.6. Enriching the scale with complementizers	553
13.4. Morpho-lexical causativization . . . . .	556
13.4.1. Morphemic status and the binding scale . . . . .	556
13.4.2. Semantic distinction in morpho-causatives . . . . .	557
13.4.3. Case-marking of the manipulee in morpho-lexical causativization . . . . .	559
13.5. Closure: Iconicity principles in the syntax of complementa- tion . . . . .	560
14. VOICE AND DE-TRANSITIVIZATION . . . . .	563
14.1. Introduction . . . . .	563
14.2. The functional domain of passive voice . . . . .	565
14.2.1. Preamble . . . . .	565
14.2.2. Transitivity and voice . . . . .	565
14.2.2.1. The semantics of transitivity . . . . .	565
14.2.2.2. The pragmatics of voice . . . . .	566
14.2.3. The functional domains of passive voice: Demotion, promotion and resulting state . . . . .	567
14.2.3.1. The agent promotion domain . . . . .	567
14.2.3.2. The non-agent promotion domain . . . . .	569
14.2.3.3. The stativization domain . . . . .	571
14.2.4. The text distribution of voice . . . . .	572
14.3. The syntactic coding of passive voice . . . . .	574
14.3.1. Preliminaries . . . . .	574

14.3.1.1.	Sources of typological variability . . . . .	574
14.3.1.2.	Syntactic structure of passive clauses . .	574
14.3.1.3.	Dependencies and clustering of syntactic features . . . . .	574
14.3.1.4.	Clause-type restrictions in passivization .	576
14.3.2.	The functional bind in passivization: Semantic vs. pragmatic case-marking . . . . .	577
14.3.3.	The two major typological solutions to the passive functional bind . . . . .	578
14.3.3.1.	The promotional ('canonical') passive sol- ution: English . . . . .	578
14.3.3.2.	The non-promotional ('agent-deleting') solution: Ute . . . . .	581
14.3.3.3.	The verb-coding compromise . . . . .	583
14.3.3.3.1.	Preamble . . . . .	583
14.3.3.3.2.	The Philippine verb-coding voice system: Bikol . . . . .	584
14.3.3.3.3.	The dative-shift verb-coding passive: Rwanda . . . . .	585
14.3.4.	Hybrid passive types . . . . .	588
14.3.4.1.	Preamble: Partial promotion . . . . .	588
14.3.4.2.	Turkish . . . . .	589
14.3.4.3.	Chepeng . . . . .	590
14.3.4.4.	Nepali . . . . .	592
14.3.5.	Passive voice and verb agreement . . . . .	597
14.3.5.1.	Preamble . . . . .	597
14.3.5.2.	Jacaltec . . . . .	598
14.3.5.3.	Nez Perce . . . . .	598
14.3.5.4.	Kapampangan . . . . .	599
14.4.	Diachronic pathways and the typology of passivization . .	600
14.4.1.	Preamble . . . . .	600
14.4.2.	The stative-adjectival source: English . . . . .	600
14.4.3.	The reflexive source: Spanish . . . . .	602
14.4.4.	The topic construction source . . . . .	605
14.4.4.1.	Preamble . . . . .	605
14.4.4.2.	From Y-movement to passive: Kimbundu . . . . .	606
14.4.4.3.	From Y-movement to passive/inverse: Dzamba . . . . .	607

15. RELATIVE CLAUSES .....	645
15.1. Preamble .....	645
15.2. Functional dimensions of relativization .....	645
15.2.1. Restrictive modifiers and referent-tracking .....	645
15.2.1.1. Preliminary considerations .....	645
15.2.1.2. Presupposition vs. thematic coherence: Referential-indefinite head nouns .....	647
15.2.1.3. The problem of strict coreference: Non- referential head nouns .....	648
15.2.2. Non-restrictive relative clauses .....	648
15.3. The syntactic typology of relativization .....	650
15.3.1. Deletion under coreference and the case recovera- bility problem .....	650
15.3.2. The non-embedding strategy .....	651
15.3.3. The anaphoric pronoun strategy .....	655
15.3.4. The relative pronoun strategy .....	656
15.3.5. The gap strategy .....	658
15.3.6. Verb agreement and the gap strategies .....	660
15.3.7. The word-order strategy .....	662
15.3.8. The nominalization strategy .....	663
15.3.9. The equi-case strategy .....	666
15.3.10. The bracketing strategy: Variation on a theme ..	667
15.3.11. Verb-coding strategies: The interaction between relativization and promotion rules .....	669
15.3.11.1. Preamble .....	669
15.3.11.2. Relativization and passivization: The “subject-only” constraint .....	670
15.3.11.3. Relativization and promotion to direct object: The “direct-object-only restric- tion” .....	672
15.3.12. Mixed relativization strategies .....	676
15.3.13. Oblique role relativization and head-noun specific- ity .....	679
15.4. Non-restrictive relative clauses .....	680
15.5. Headless relative clauses .....	683
15.6. Extraposed relative clauses .....	686
15.7. Relative clauses and syntactic complexity .....	687
15.7.1. Preamble .....	687

15.7.2.	Ross's complex-NP constraint	688
15.7.3.	Recursive center embedding	697
15.7.4.	Parataxis as a mechanism for decreased complexity	698
16.	CONTRASTIVE FOCUS CONSTRUCTIONS	699
16.1.	Introduction	699
16.2.	The functional domain of contrastive focus	700
16.2.1.	Predictability, expectation and contrast	700
16.2.2.	Identifiability vs. presupposition	701
16.2.3.	Assertion scope vs. contrastive focus	701
16.2.4.	Normative expectations vs. contrast	702
16.2.5.	Contrastive strength	703
16.2.5.1.	Preamble	703
16.2.5.2.	Contrastive stress-focus devices	704
16.2.5.3.	Y-movement	705
16.2.5.4.	Restrictive modifiers	706
16.2.6.	Focus, reference and topicality	708
16.2.6.1.	Reference and topicality	708
16.2.6.2.	Referentiality and contrast	709
16.2.6.3.	Topicality and contrast	710
16.2.7.	Negation, yes/no questions, assertion scope and contrastive focus	711
16.2.7.1.	Preamble	711
16.2.7.2.	Negation and focus attraction	712
16.2.7.3.	Yes/no question and focus attraction	713
16.2.8.	Other focus-attracting grammatical devices	714
16.2.8.1.	WH-questions	714
16.2.8.2.	Contrastive quantifiers	715
16.3.	Syntactic typological parameters of contrastive focus	716
16.3.1.	Preamble	716
16.3.2.	Focus and relativization	717
16.3.3.	Focus and WH-questions	720
16.3.4.	Diachronic simplification and the vestigial copula	722
16.3.5.	Further typological features of contrastive focus	725
16.3.5.1.	Multiple sharing of the focus morpheme	725
16.3.5.2.	Word-order and contrastive focus	727
16.3.5.3.	Verb clefting	731
16.4.	Typological predictions concerning the use of code elements in focus constructions	733

16.5. Cognitive-iconic considerations	736
16.5.1. Attention and contrastive stress	736
16.5.2. Attention and word-order	736
17. MARKED-TOPIC CONSTRUCTIONS	739
17.1. Introduction	739
17.2. Functional aspects of topicality	740
17.2.1. Preamble	740
17.2.2. Referent accessibility and thematic importance	740
17.3. The grammar of marked-topic constructions	741
17.3.1. Preamble	741
17.3.2. Existential-presentative constructions	741
17.3.2.1. Functional dimensions	741
17.3.2.2. Syntactic dimensions	742
17.3.2.2.1. Verb type	742
17.3.2.2.2. Grammatical agreement	743
17.3.2.2.3. Word-order	744
17.3.3. Topic-coding morphology	748
17.3.3.1. Preamble	748
17.3.3.2. Indefinite cataphoric morphology	748
17.3.3.2.1. The use of the numeral 'one'	748
17.3.3.2.2. The use of the demonstrative 'this'	749
17.3.3.2.3. The use of noun-class prefixes	749
17.3.3.2.4. The use of noun classifiers	750
17.3.3.3. Definite cataphoric morphology	751
17.3.4. Y-movement	752
17.3.4.1. Functional dimensions	752
17.3.4.2. Syntactic and typological dimensions	754
17.3.5. Left dislocation	757
17.3.5.1. Functional dimensions	757
17.3.5.2. Syntactic and typological dimensions	759
17.3.6. Right dislocation	760
17.3.6.1. Functional considerations	760
17.3.6.2. Syntactic and typological dimensions	761
17.3.7. Dative-shifting	762
17.3.7.1. Functional characterization	762
17.3.7.2. Syntactic and typological dimensions	763

	17.3.7.2.1. Word-order and dative shifting	763
	17.3.7.2.2. Verb agreement, topicality and dative shifting	765
17.3.8.	Raising	767
	17.3.8.1. General characterization	767
	17.3.8.2. Preliminary description	767
	17.3.8.2.1. Raising to object	768
	17.3.8.2.2. Raising to subject	768
	17.3.8.3. Functional considerations	770
	17.3.8.3.1. Semantic correlates	770
	17.3.8.3.2. Pragmatic correlates: Raising and topicality	771
	17.3.8.4. Typological dimensions of raising	775
18.	NON-DECLARATIVE SPEECH-ACTS	779
18.1.	Introduction	779
18.2.	The truth value test: Background presuppositions and pro- totype speech-acts	781
18.3.	Yes-no questions	782
	18.3.1. Functional dimensions	782
	18.3.1.1. Truth and epistemic bias	782
	18.3.1.2. Alternative questions	783
	18.3.1.3. Focused yes-no questions	784
	18.3.2. Syntactic and typological dimensions	786
	18.3.2.1. The use of intonation, morphology and word-order in the coding of yes-no ques- tions	786
	18.3.2.2. Shared interrogative morphology	787
	18.3.2.3. The syntax of focus yes/no questions	788
	18.3.2.4. Clefted yes-no questions	790
	18.3.2.5. The syntax of alternative choice questions	791
18.4.	WH questions	793
	18.4.1. Functional dimensions	793
	18.4.1.1. Focus and presupposition	793
	18.4.1.2. Semantic distinctions in interrogative pro- nouns	794
	18.4.1.3. Quantified WH questions	798
	18.4.1.4. Multiple WH questions	799

18.4.2. Syntactic and typological dimensions	799
18.4.2.1. Preamble	799
18.4.2.2. Position of the WH-pronoun	800
18.4.2.3. Word-order	801
18.4.2.4. Cleft and pseudo-cleft WH-question patterns	802
18.4.2.5. Embedded-WH-questions	804
18.5. Manipulative speech-acts	806
18.5.1. Preamble	806
18.5.2. Functional dimensions	806
18.5.2.1. Clauses of the communicative contract	806
18.5.2.2. Manipulation, power and status	807
18.5.3. Syntactic and typological dimensions	808
18.5.3.1. Finiteness	808
18.5.3.2. Aberrant case-marking in manipulative clauses	811
18.5.3.3. Prohibitives or negative-imperatives	813
18.6. The speech act continuum	814
18.6.1. Preamble: Syntactic prototypes vs. functional continuum	814
18.6.2. From imperative to interrogative	815
18.6.3. From imperative to declarative	816
18.6.4. From declarative to interrogative	818
18.7. Epistemic modalities and manipulative speech-acts	819
18.7.1. Preamble	819
18.7.2. From irrealis to intent to power	819
18.7.3. Subjunctives: From uncertainty to manipulation	820
18.8. Certainty, power and deference	821
18.8.1. Preamble	821
18.8.2. Certainty and authority	822
18.8.3. Negation, authority and politeness	822
18.8.4. Certainty, modesty and politeness	823
18.8.5. Certainty, responsibility and blame	824
19. INTERCLAUSAL COHERENCE	825
19.1. Introduction	825
19.1.2. Interclausal coherence	826
19.2. Functional dimensions	827
19.2.1. Preamble	827

19.2.2. Adverbial clauses: semantic links . . . . .	827
19.2.2.1. Temporal clauses . . . . .	827
19.2.2.2. Conditional clauses . . . . .	828
19.2.2.2.1. Irrealis conditionals . . . . .	829
19.2.2.2.2. Counter-fact conditionals . . . . .	831
19.2.2.2.3. Conditionals with inter- intermediate truth value . . . . .	832
19.2.2.2.4. Concessive conditionals . . . . .	834
19.2.2.3. Cause and reason clauses . . . . .	834
19.2.2.4. Concessive clauses . . . . .	835
19.2.2.5. Substitutive clauses . . . . .	836
19.2.2.6. Additive clauses . . . . .	836
19.2.2.7. Purpose clauses . . . . .	836
19.2.2.8. Participial ADV-clauses . . . . .	837
19.2.2.8.1. Early overview: Finiteness and clause integration . . . . .	837
19.2.2.8.2. Progressive participial ADV- clauses . . . . .	839
19.2.2.8.3. Perfect participial ADV- clauses . . . . .	841
19.2.2.8.4. The equi-subject constraint: Referential vs. thematic coherence . . . . .	842
19.2.3. Discourse-pragmatic links of adverbial clauses . . . . .	844
19.2.3.1. Preamble . . . . .	844
19.2.3.2. Coherence and grounding . . . . .	844
19.2.3.2.1. Topicality and backgrounding . . . . .	844
19.2.3.2.2. Grounding and thematic re- orientation . . . . .	846
19.2.4. Coordinate ('conjoined') clauses . . . . .	847
19.2.4.1. Preamble . . . . .	847
19.2.4.2. Coherence and thematic continuity . . . . .	848
19.2.4.3. Coherence and thematic contrast . . . . .	850
19.3. Syntactic and typological dimensions . . . . .	852
19.3.1. Finiteness . . . . .	852
19.3.1.1. Preamble . . . . .	852
19.3.1.2. The sub-components of finiteness . . . . .	853
19.3.1.2.1. Finiteness and verbal inflec- tions . . . . .	854

19.3.1.2.1.1.	Finiteness and tense-aspect-modality . . . . .	854
19.3.1.2.1.2.	Finiteness and pronominal agreement . . . . .	857
19.3.1.2.2.	Nominal inflections: Case marking . . . . .	859
19.3.2.	Finiteness and ADV-clauses . . . . .	860
19.3.2.1.	Preamble . . . . .	860
19.3.2.2.	Tense-aspect-modal restrictions . . . . .	860
19.3.2.3.	Nominalized ADV-clauses . . . . .	862
19.3.3.	Clause chaining . . . . .	864
19.3.3.1.	Preamble . . . . .	864
19.3.3.2.	Medial vs. final clauses . . . . .	865
19.3.3.3.	Cataphoric switch-reference . . . . .	865
19.3.3.4.	Switch reference and explicit DS-medial clauses . . . . .	867
19.3.3.5.	Subject pronouns as SS-medial markers . . . . .	869
19.3.3.6.	Medial vs. final vs. background clauses . . . . .	870
19.3.3.7.	Thematic-temporal relations of medial clauses . . . . .	872
19.3.4.	Finiteness and conjoined clauses: A re-evaluation . . . . .	874
19.3.4.1.	Overview . . . . .	874
19.3.4.2.	Nominal case-marking . . . . .	876
19.3.4.3.	Verbal inflections . . . . .	877
19.3.5.	The government of finiteness in medial clauses: Referential vs. thematic coherence . . . . .	879
19.3.5.1.	Preamble . . . . .	879
19.3.5.2.	The Swahili chain-medial -ka- 'tense' . . . . .	880
19.3.5.3.	The Pima-Papago conjunction ku . . . . .	882
19.3.6.	Case-marking and switch-reference morphology . . . . .	884
19.3.6.1.	Preamble . . . . .	884
19.3.6.2.	Case agreement and switch-reference in Jiwarli subordinate clauses . . . . .	885
19.3.6.3.	Case agreement and referential tracking in Panoan . . . . .	887
19.3.7.	Inter-clausal grammar and word-order typology . . . . .	889
19.3.7.1.	Preamble . . . . .	889
19.3.7.2.	The position of the connecting morpheme . . . . .	890
19.3.7.3.	Clause-chaining type . . . . .	890

20. THE GRAMMAR OF REFERENTIAL COHERENCE: A COGNITIVE RE-INTERPRETATION . . . . .	893
20.1. Introduction . . . . .	893
20.1.1. Grammar, text and mind . . . . .	893
20.1.2. On using metaphoric labels for mental entities . . . . .	895
20.1.3. Scope . . . . .	895
20.2. Discourse structure . . . . .	896
20.2.1. Propositions, clauses and information chunking . . . . .	896
20.2.2. Coherent discourse . . . . .	896
20.2.2.1. Multi-propositional coherence . . . . .	896
20.2.2.2. Linear and hierarchic structure . . . . .	897
20.2.3. The grounding of information . . . . .	897
20.2.3.1. Perspective . . . . .	897
20.2.3.2. Old and new information . . . . .	897
20.2.3.3. The grammatical organization of ground- ing . . . . .	899
20.3. Topicality . . . . .	900
20.3.1. Preamble . . . . .	900
20.3.2. Topicality and grammatical organization . . . . .	901
20.4. Measuring topicality in discourse . . . . .	902
20.4.1. Clause vs. discourse . . . . .	902
20.4.2. The discourse-pragmatics of topicality . . . . .	902
20.4.2.1. Preamble . . . . .	902
20.4.2.2. Referential accessibility: Shared contexts . . . . .	903
20.4.2.3. The deictic context . . . . .	903
20.4.2.4. The cultural context . . . . .	903
20.4.2.5. The discourse context . . . . .	904
20.4.2.5.1. Referential continuity . . . . .	904
20.4.2.5.2. Referential complexity . . . . .	905
20.4.2.5.3. Clause-internal semantic infor- mation . . . . .	905
20.4.2.5.4. Discourse-thematic information . . . . .	906
20.4.3. Quantitative measures of topicality . . . . .	906
20.4.3.1. Measures of referential accessibility . . . . .	906
20.4.3.2. Measures of thematic importance . . . . .	907
20.4.3.3. Some illustrations of text-based quantita- tive measures of topicality . . . . .	909
20.5. The non-scalar nature of topicality . . . . .	910

20.5.1. Preamble	910
20.5.2. Discreteness in grammar	911
20.5.3. Discreteness in cognition	911
20.5.4. Scalar artifacts in text-based measures of topicality	912
20.6. The cognitive underpinning of the grammar of referential coherence	914
20.6.1. General orientation	914
20.6.2. Major attentional activation choices	915
20.6.2.1. Overview	915
20.6.2.2. Assignment of default activation status	916
20.6.2.3. The default status of continued activation	917
20.6.2.4. The activation status of non-continuing referents	918
20.6.2.5. The unmarked status of unimportant referents	919
20.6.2.6. The cognitive status of indefinite referents	920
20.6.2.7. The cognitive status of definite referents	922
20.6.2.7.1. Overview	922
20.6.2.7.2. Markedness status of definite referents	922
20.6.2.7.3. Important vs. unimportant definites	923
20.6.2.7.4. Summary: Cognitive instructions for definite referents	924
20.6.3. Determining the source ('antecedence') of definites	924
20.6.4. Searches for culture-based reference	925
20.6.4.1. Levels of culture-shared reference	925
20.6.4.2. Interactive parallel searches	927
20.6.4.3. Hierarchic node-structure and frame-based activation	928
20.6.4.4. Centrality, relevance and frame-based activation	929
20.6.5. The processing of text-based definite referents	929
20.6.5.1. Preamble	929
20.6.5.2. Short-distance text-based searches: Within the current active node	930
20.6.5.3. Long-distance text-based searches: Searching outside the current active node	933

20.6.5.4.	Specifically-guided text-based searches . . .	935
20.6.5.4.1.	Modifier-guided searches . . .	935
20.6.5.5.	Deixis-guided text-based searches . . . . .	937
20.6.5.6.	Name-guided text-based searches . . . . .	937
20.7.	Discussion . . . . .	938
20.7.1.	Referents as paragraph-node labels . . . . .	938
20.7.2.	Node activation and the deployment of attention .	938
20.7.2.1.	Activation, re-activation and de-activation	938
20.7.2.2.	The gating function of conscious judge- ment of importance or relevance . . . . .	939
20.7.2.3.	Correlation with attention studies . . . . .	939
20.7.3.	Searches in mental storage-space . . . . .	940
20.7.3.1.	Storage types and interactive searches .	940
20.7.3.2.	Text-based searches in episodic memory	941
20.8	Applicability to collaborative discourse . . . . .	941
20.8.1.	Collaborative discourse . . . . .	941
20.8.2.	Storage structure of collaborative text . . . . .	943
20.8.3.	Evolutionary considerations . . . . .	944
20.8.4.	Specific grammatical devices . . . . .	944
21.	MARKEDNESS AND ICONICITY IN SYNTAX . . . . .	945
21.1.	Orientation . . . . .	945
21.2.	Markedness in syntax . . . . .	945
21.2.1.	Preliminaries . . . . .	945
21.2.1.1.	Historical context . . . . .	945
21.2.1.2.	Context-dependence . . . . .	946
21.2.1.3.	Criteria . . . . .	947
21.2.1.4.	Scope . . . . .	948
21.2.2.	Markedness of discourse types . . . . .	948
21.2.2.1.	Oral-informal vs. written-formal discourse	948
21.2.2.2.	Human-affairs vs. abstract-academic sub- ject matter . . . . .	950
21.2.2.3.	Conversation vs. narrative/procedural dis- course . . . . .	950
21.2.3.	Markedness of clause types . . . . .	952
21.2.3.1.	Preamble . . . . .	952
21.2.3.2.	Main vs. subordinate clauses . . . . .	952
21.2.3.3.	Declarative vs. manipulative speech-acts	954

21.2.3.4.	Affirmative vs. negative clauses . . . . .	957
21.2.3.5.	Active vs. passive-detransitive clauses . . . . .	957
21.2.4.	The markedness of nominal modalities . . . . .	958
21.2.4.1.	Preamble . . . . .	958
21.2.4.2.	Case-role and markedness . . . . .	959
21.2.4.3.	Referentiality, individuation and markedness . . . . .	960
21.2.4.4.	Definiteness and markedness . . . . .	961
21.2.4.5.	Anaphoric deletion and markedness . . . . .	961
21.2.4.6.	Topicality, continuity and markedness . . . . .	961
21.2.5.	The markedness of verbal modalities . . . . .	962
21.2.5.1.	Preamble . . . . .	962
21.2.5.2.	Modality . . . . .	964
21.2.5.3.	Perfectivity . . . . .	964
21.2.5.4.	The perfect . . . . .	964
21.3.5.4.1.	Sequentiality . . . . .	965
21.3.5.4.2.	Relevance . . . . .	965
21.3.	Intermezzo: Markedness as meta-iconicity . . . . .	965
21.4.	Iconicity in syntax . . . . .	966
21.4.1.	Preamble: Isomorphism vs. arbitrariness . . . . .	966
21.4.2.	Iconic coding principles . . . . .	968
21.4.2.1.	Preamble . . . . .	968
21.4.2.2.	The quantity principle . . . . .	969
21.4.2.3.	The proximity principle . . . . .	970
21.4.2.4.	Sequential order principles . . . . .	971
21.4.3.	Combining iconic and conventional elements . . . . .	973
21.4.3.1.	Preamble . . . . .	973
21.4.3.2.	Verb complements . . . . .	973
21.4.3.3.	Passives . . . . .	975
21.5.	The biological basis of iconic codes . . . . .	976
21.5.1.	Functionalism and iconicity in biology . . . . .	976
21.5.2.	Chemical iconism: The genetic code . . . . .	979
21.5.3.	The tonotopic map of pitch . . . . .	980
21.5.4.	Cognitive iconism: The spatial maps . . . . .	980
21.5.4.1.	Spatial auditory maps in barn owls . . . . .	980
21.5.4.2.	Spatial-tactile maps in mice . . . . .	981
21.5.4.3.	Primate visual maps . . . . .	982
21.5.4.4.	Why iconic neural mapping? . . . . .	982

21.5.5. Communicative iconism: The coding of aggression and submission . . . . .	983
21.6. Closure . . . . .	985
BIBLIOGRAPHICAL REFERENCES . . . . .	987
INDEX . . . . .	1013