

Contents

Note	vi
Abbreviations	vii
0. Introduction	1
1. Phonological Variation and Change in Relation to the System	3
1.1. Organization of the Sound System	3
1.2. Distinctive Feature Definitions	15
1.3. Variability in Relation to Asymmetry Within and Between Distinctive Feature Oppositions	41
1.4. Phonological Speech Errors in Relation to Asymmetry Within and Between Distinctive Feature Oppositions	45
1.5. Variation and Language Change in Relation to Asymmetry Within and Between Distinctive Feature Oppositions	52
1.6. Markedness and Ordering at Various Levels	69
1.7. Prosodic Hierarchy in Phonology	84
2. Grammatical Variation and Change in Relation to the System	107
2.1. Case Development Against the Background of the Grammatical Features Involved	109
2.2. Syncretism in Verb Endings Against the Background of the Grammatical Features Involved	116
3. Lexical Variation and Change in Relation to the System	129
3.1. The Kiranti Group of Tibeto-Burman Languages in East Nepal and Contact Phenomena with Indo-Aryan	130
3.2. Numerals in Kiranti Languages and Their Change	134

3.3. Numerals in Other Tibeto-Burman Languages	167
3.4. The Bantawa Rai Numerals Elaborated	188
4. Language Typology in Relation to the System	193
5. Conclusions	207
6. References	209
Indexes	217