

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
Foreword	vi
Introduction.	1
Footnotes.	4
I Cyclic Indexing	5
1. The Cyclic Nature of Quantifier Postposition and Agreement.	7
A. Quantifier Postposition.	7
B. Agreement between a subject and an adjective or participle in predicate position	10
2. The interaction of Agreement and QP in a syntactically autonomous theory.	12
A. Agreement must be interpretive	12
B. Agreement must be syntactic.	14
C. QP and Subject-Raising	15
3. The logico-grammatical approach.	17
A. The use of variables	17
B. EQUI-NP deletion	21
C. Pronominalization.	23
4. Indexing Transformations	26
A. A solution to the Agreement and Pronominalization problem.	26
B. Review of the data	28
C. Conclusion - Indexing transformations.	33
5. Amended Feature-copying.	34
6. Additional Remarks	39
Footnotes.	47
II Definite Descriptions	51
1. Pronouns and Variables	52
2. Further problems posed by classical pronominalization.	54
A. Underlying structures.	54
B. Uniqueness presuppositions	59
3. Unexpanded NP's as variables	60
4. Such that constructions and Relative Clauses	69
5. Relative clause structures	75
6. Equivalent logical forms	81
Footnotes.	87

III	The Cyclic Nature of the Ross-Langacker Constraints	90
	1. Formal aspects of the arguments on the cyclic nature of pronominalization	91
	A. Ross's argument.	91
	B. Postal's argument.	92
	C. Jackendoff's argument.	98
	2. Constraints on Feature-copying	102
	A. Formal possibilities	103
	B. Agreement between participle and object.	112
	C. The constraint on Quantifier Postposition.	122
	Footnotes.	138
IV	The Closeness Constraint.	141
	1. A priori definition of the Closeness Constraint.	144
	2. Anaphoric definite descriptions and epithets	146
	3. The "accusativus cum infinitivo" construction in Latin.	149
	4. Relative clause reduction in Latin	154
	5. Case-agreement in Greek.	160
	6. Participle-Object Agreement in French.	171
	Footnotes.	173
V	Other Aspects of Distributivity in French and their Theoretical Implications.	175
	1. Bidirectional movement transformations?.	175
	2. Ordering Problems.	193
	3. Distributive plurals	196
	4. Derivational Constraints	203
	Footnotes.	208
VI	Bound Variables	210
	1. Some remarks on "quantifier-structures".	211
	2. The grammar of any and or	221
	A. Assumptions for the analysis	221
	B. Previous treatments of any	223
	C. any as an existential quantifier	225
	D. Interaction of any and or	229
	E. Additional Remarks	238
	Appendix	241
	Footnotes.	245

	Page
Conclusion.	250
1. Two types of Global Phenomena.	250
2. Consequences for the formal extension of the theory of grammar	254
3. The notion of "theorem of grammar"	255
4. Logically based grammars	257
Footnotes.	259
References.	260