

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface to the Preliminary Edition . . . . .	5
Preface to the Second Edition . . . . .	8
1. Language as Behavior . . . . .	25
1.1 An Illustration of the Need for a Unified Theory . . . . .	25
1.2 Language Behavior and Non-Language Behavior Fused in Single Events . . . . .	26
1.21 Nonlanguage Reports Which Need a Language Supplement . . . . .	27
1.22 Language Reports Which Need a Nonlanguage Supplement . . . . .	28
1.3 Verbal and Nonverbal Elements Substituting for One Another in Function . . . . .	30
1.4 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 1. . . . .	32
2. Etic and Emic Standpoints for the Description of Behavior. . . . .	37
2.1 Characteristics of the Two Standpoints . . . . .	37
2.11 Cross-Cultural Versus Specific . . . . .	37
2.12 Physical Nature, Response, and Distribution . . . . .	39
2.13 Value of Standpoints . . . . .	40
2.14 Caution — Not a Dichotomy. . . . .	41
2.2 Illustrations of Purposive Emic Differences Within a Culture . . . . .	42
2.3 Variants of Emic Units . . . . .	44
2.4 Differences in Etic Observers. . . . .	46
2.5 Organization of Similar Etic Units Within Distinct Emic Systems. . . . .	47
2.6 Predictability of Difficulties in Learning to React Emically to an Alien Emic System. . . . .	51
2.7 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 2. . . . .	53
2.71 On Etic versus Emic Viewpoints . . . . .	53
2.72 On the Nature of Structure . . . . .	55
2.73 On Extralinguistic Cultural Distribution as Relevant to Emic Analysis . . . . .	59

2.74	On Clash between Systems as a Source of Evidence or Assump- tions Relevant to the Emic Analysis of Language . . . . .	64
2.75	On Theory Formation and the Philosophy of Science . . . . .	68
3.	The Structure of Behavior Illustrated . . . . .	73
3.1	Glimpses of a Church Service . . . . .	73
3.2	Segments and Waves of Activity . . . . .	74
3.21	Nuclei of Segments . . . . .	74
3.22	Borders of Etic Segments . . . . .	75
3.23	Etic Segments as Waves of Activity . . . . .	76
3.24	Markers of Emic Segments . . . . .	76
3.25	Indeterminacy of Segment Borders . . . . .	77
3.3	Focus and the Whole . . . . .	78
3.31	Hierarchical Structure . . . . .	79
3.32	Focus and Participants . . . . .	79
3.33	Lower Limits to Focus . . . . .	80
3.34	Indeterminacy of Focus . . . . .	80
3.35	Criteria for Closure . . . . .	81
3.4	Slots and Classes . . . . .	82
3.41	Functional Slots in Larger Wholes . . . . .	82
3.42	Segment Classes . . . . .	83
3.43	Indeterminacy of Class . . . . .	84
3.5	Modes of Units . . . . .	84
3.51	Distribution Mode . . . . .	86
3.52	Manifestation Mode . . . . .	87
3.53	Feature Mode . . . . .	89
3.54	Indeterminacy of Modes . . . . .	92
3.55	Modal Formula Symbolizing Units . . . . .	92
3.56	Manifestation of Each Mode as the Manifestation of the Whole . . . . .	92
3.6	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 3. . . . .	94
3.61	On Segmenting a Continuum . . . . .	94
3.62	On Hierarchical Structure . . . . .	95
3.63	On Units . . . . .	96
4.	Focus Illustrated . . . . .	98
4.1	A Football Game in Focus . . . . .	98
4.11	The Length of the Game . . . . .	98
4.12	The Spectacle . . . . .	99

4.13	The Season . . . . .	100
4.14	Miscellaneous Overlapping Hierarchies . . . . .	101
4.15	Abstraction Focus (Hypostasis) . . . . .	102
4.16	Periods in the Official Game . . . . .	103
4.17	Plays, Play Sequences, and Closure . . . . .	103
4.18	Plays in Slots with Choice and Variants . . . . .	104
4.19	Wholes Smaller than Plays . . . . .	105
4.1.10	Homomorphic Activity and Indeterminacy . . . . .	105
4.2	Height of Focus . . . . .	106
4.21	Predominant Focus . . . . .	106
4.22	Exponents in Formulas . . . . .	106
4.23	Hypostasis Formulas and Types . . . . .	107
4.24	Modal Elements in Focus Formulas . . . . .	108
4.25	Diagram of Changes of Focus Height . . . . .	109
4.3	Depth of Focus . . . . .	109
4.31	Shallow and Deep Focus. . . . .	109
4.32	Thresholds, With Lower and Upper Limits to Height of Focus . . . . .	111
4.4	Breadth of Focus . . . . .	112
4.41	Focusing Processes . . . . .	112
4.42	Wide versus Narrow Focus. . . . .	114
4.43	Relevance in Reference to Composites . . . . .	114
4.44	Segmental Borders of Composites . . . . .	116
4.45	Segments as Simultaneously Members of Separate Intersecting Hierarchies. . . . .	117
4.46	Composites in a Setting . . . . .	117
4.5	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 4. . . . .	118
5.	The Behavioreme (Including the Sentence) . . . . .	120
5.1	The Behavioreme Defined or Described . . . . .	121
5.2	The Behavioreme Illustrated by a Breakfast Unit . . . . .	122
5.3	Included Behavioremes, Minimum Behavioremes, and Thresholds . . . . .	128
5.4	Systems of Behavioremes . . . . .	131
5.5	The Uttereme (The Sentence Syntagmeme) and the Etics of Utterances . . . . .	133
5.51	Segmentation of a Continuum into Utterances and Hyper-Utterances. . . . .	133
5.52	Etic Classificatory Criteria for Utterance Types . . . . .	135
5.53	Etic Utterance Types . . . . .	138
5.54	Utterance Distribution Classes . . . . .	139

5.55	Emic Procedure in the Analysis of Utterances and Hyper-Utterances . . . . .	141
5.6	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 5. . . . .	144
5.61	On Behavioremes . . . . .	144
5.62	An Etic Classification in Anthropology . . . . .	145
5.63	On Linguistic Units Larger than Sentences . . . . .	145
5.64	On Meaning in Definitions of Sentence Types . . . . .	148
6.	The Minimum Unit of the Feature Mode of the Behavioreme (Including the Morpheme) . . . . .	150
6.1	Definition of the Emic Motif . . . . .	150
6.2	The Emic Motif Partially Illustrated . . . . .	151
6.3	The Emic Motif Contrasted with the Behavioreme . . . . .	153
6.4	The Feature Mode of the Morpheme . . . . .	154
6.41	Minimum Purposive Units in Reference to Hypostasis in a Componential System . . . . .	154
6.42	Sources of Analytical Knowledge of Purposes and Meanings. . . . .	155
6.43	Conceptualized Hypostasis in Participant Awareness of Purpose and Meaning . . . . .	156
6.44	Indeterminacy and Margin of Error in Analyzing Purpose and Meaning. . . . .	158
6.45	Morphemes Without Lexical Meaning . . . . .	160
6.46	Contrastive-Identificational and Meaningful-Formal Characteristics of a Morpheme . . . . .	162
6.5	The Manifestation Mode of the Morpheme . . . . .	163
6.51	Identical Manifestations . . . . .	163
6.52	Free Variants of a Morpheme . . . . .	164
6.53	Locally-Conditioned Variants of a Morpheme . . . . .	164
6.54	Morphetically-Complex Variants of a Morpheme . . . . .	166
6.55	Fused versus Clearly-Segmented Variants of Morphemes . . . . .	168
6.56	Locally-Free but Systemically-Conditioned Variants of Morphemes . . . . .	168
6.6	The Distribution Mode of the Morpheme . . . . .	169
6.61	Activeness of Morphemes . . . . .	169
6.62	Parasitic (Latent) Morphs, and Differences in Participants. . . . .	172
6.63	Morphemic-Class Membership and Potential-Distribution as Components of the Distribution Mode of a Morpheme . . . . .	173
6.64	The Internal Structure of a Morpheme. . . . .	175
6.65	An Occuring Allomorph Viewed as Constituting an Occurring Morpheme . . . . .	176

6.66	Border Limits of Morphemes in Reference to Tagmemes . . .	177
6.7	Systems of Morphemes as Composed of Emic Classes of Morphemes	178
6.8	Morphetics . . . . .	179
6.81	Segmentation of a Continuum into Morphs . . . . .	179
6.82	Etic Classificatory Criteria for Morph Types . . . . .	180
6.83	Etic Classificatory Criteria for Morphs in Relation to their Dis- tribution Classes . . . . .	181
6.84	Summary of the Relation of Morphs to Morphemes . . . . .	181
6.9	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 6. . . . .	182
6.91	On Morpheme Definition . . . . .	183
6.92	On Active Elements . . . . .	190
6.93	On Indeterminacy in Morphemic Analysis . . . . .	191
6.94	On Etic Classifications. . . . .	192
7.	The Minimum Unit of the Distribution Mode of the Behavioreme (Including the Tagmeme) . . . . .	194
7.1	Definition of Motifemic-Slot-Class-Correlative . . . . .	194
7.2	The Motifemic-Slot-Class Correlative Partially Illustrated within the Breakfast Unit . . . . .	195
7.3	The Feature Mode of the Tagmeme . . . . .	196
7.31	Distribution Classes of Morphemes as Tagmemic Components	196
7.311	Choice in Relation to Classes of Morphemes . . . . .	197
7.312	A Class of Morphemes as a Tagmemic Clue . . . . .	198
7.313	Etic Classes of Morphemes versus Emic Trimodally- Structured Classes of Morphemes . . . . .	198
7.313(1)	The Feature Mode of an Emic Class of Mor- phemes . . . . .	198
7.313(2)	The Distribution Mode of an Emic Morpheme Class . . . . .	201
7.313(3)	The Manifestation Mode of an Emic Class of Morphemes . . . . .	204
7.313(4)	Lexical Sets and Systems of Morpheme Classes	208
7.32	Tagmemic Slot, Proportion, and Structural Meaning as Tag- memic Components . . . . .	217
7.321	Tagmatic versus Tagmemic Slots . . . . .	218
7.322	Recognition of Proportion . . . . .	222
7.323	Tagmemic Meaning in Relation to Morphemic Meaning	226
7.324	Tagmemic Meaning in Relation to Morphemic-Distri- bution-Class Meaning . . . . .	227

7.4	The Manifestation Mode of the Tagmeme . . . . .	228
7.41	Identical Manifestations of a Tagmeme . . . . .	228
7.42	Free Variants of a Tagmeme . . . . .	229
7.43	Locally-Conditioned Manifested Variants of a Tagmeme . . . . .	229
7.44	Morphemically-Complex Manifested Variants of a Tagmeme . . . . .	232
7.45	Fused versus Clearly-Segmented Variants of Tagmemes . . . . .	235
7.46	Systematically-Conditioned Variants of Tagmemes . . . . .	235
7.5	The Distribution Mode of the Tagmeme . . . . .	236
7.51	Activeness of Tagmemes . . . . .	236
7.52	The Tagmemic-Class Membership and the Potential Occurrence of a Tagmeme as a Component of Its Distribution Mode . . . . .	238
7.53	Potential for the Correlation of the Manifestations of One Tag- meme with the Manifestations of Another Tagmeme . . . . .	239
7.54	The Internal Structure of the Tagmeme . . . . .	240
7.55	An Occurring Tagmemic Manifestation Viewed as an Occurring Tagmeme . . . . .	241
7.56	Border Limits of Tagmemes in Reference to Morphemes and Hypermorphemes . . . . .	242
7.6	Systems of Tagmemes as Composed of Emic Classes of Tagmemes . . . . .	245
7.7	Tagmatics . . . . .	251
7.71	Segmentation of a Continuum into Tagmas . . . . .	251
7.72	Etic Classificatory Criteria for Tagma Types . . . . .	252
7.73	Etic Classificatory Criteria for Tagmas in Reference to Their Distribution Classes . . . . .	254
7.74	Utteremic-Tagmemic Formulas Following Tagmatic Analysis . . . . .	254
7.741	Summary of the Relation of Tagmas to Tagmemes . . . . .	254
7.742	Utteremic-Tagmemic Formulas for Languagette A . . . . .	255
7.743	Utteremic-Tagmemic Formulas for Languagette B . . . . .	258
7.744	Utteremic-Tagmemic Formulas for Languagette A' . . . . .	258
7.745	Utteremic-Tagmemic Formulas for Languagette B' . . . . .	259
7.746	Utteremic-Tagmemic Formulas for Languagette C . . . . .	261
7.75	Languagettes for Student Analysis . . . . .	265
7.8	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 7 . . . . .	270
7.81	On Classes of Morphemes . . . . .	272
7.82	On Slot or Position . . . . .	275
7.83	On Proportion, Positional Meaning, and Substitutability . . . . .	276
7.84	On Potential and Prediction . . . . .	280
7.85	On Morphemic Slot-Class Correlatives versus Constructions or Relationships . . . . .	282

7.86 On the Etics of Relationships . . . . .	285
7.87 On the Initial Development of Tagmemic Theory . . . . .	286
7.88 On Tagmemic Method . . . . .	289
8. The Minimum Unit of the Manifestation Mode of the Behavioreme (Including the Phoneme) . . . . .	290
8.1 Definition of the Acteme . . . . .	290
8.2 The Acteme Partially Illustrated Within the Breakfast Unit . . . . .	291
8.21 Nonverbal Actemes (Kinemes) Illustrated . . . . .	291
8.22 Verbal Actemes (Phonemes) Illustrated . . . . .	293
8.3 The Feature Mode of the Phoneme . . . . .	294
8.31 Simultaneous, Sequential, and Contrastive-Identificational Features . . . . .	294
8.32 Units versus Relationships or Poles of Contrast . . . . .	297
8.33 Relativity of Features and Phonetic Overlap . . . . .	298
8.34 Fused Ranges of Features with Intermediate Phonetic Manifestations . . . . .	300
8.35 The Possibility of Contrastive-Identificational Features of Phonemes as Emes . . . . .	302
8.4 The Manifestation Mode of the Phoneme . . . . .	306
8.41 Movement as Basic to Phonemic Manifestation . . . . .	306
8.42 Waves of Activity in Phonemic Manifestation . . . . .	307
8.43 Participant Type in Relation to Phonemic Movement . . . . .	309
8.44 Variants of Phonemes . . . . .	311
8.441 Systemically-Conditioned but Topologically-Same Variants of the Phoneme . . . . .	311
8.442 Phonemically- and Hyperphonemically-Conditioned Variants of the Phoneme . . . . .	312
8.443 The Possibility of Grammatically-Conditioned Variants of the Phoneme . . . . .	313
8.444 Free (Nonconditioned) Variants of the Phoneme . . . . .	316
8.445 Phonetically-Complex Variants of the Phoneme . . . . .	317
8.446 Fused versus Clearly-Segmented Variants of the Phoneme . . . . .	317
8.5 The Distribution Mode of the Phoneme . . . . .	318
8.51 Actual and Potential Distribution of the Phoneme in Hyperphonemes . . . . .	318
8.52 Actual and Potential Distribution of the Phoneme in Grammatical Units and in the Behavioreme . . . . .	320

8.53	The Internal Structure of the Phoneme and its Active Membership in a Class of Phonemes . . . . .	322
8.54	An Occurring Allophone Viewed as Constituting an Occurring Phoneme . . . . .	323
8.6	Systems of Phonemes . . . . .	323
8.61	Congruent Systems of Phonemes in a Hypercongruent System	323
8.62	Trimodally-Structured Classes of Phonemes . . . . .	325
8.621	The Distribution Mode of an Emic Class of Phonemes	325
8.622	The Manifestation Mode of an Emic Class of Phonemes	326
8.623	The Feature Mode of an Emic Class of Phonemes . . . . .	328
8.63	An English Illustration of Emic Classes of Phonemes . . . . .	331
8.64	A Hierarchy of English Classes of Phonemes . . . . .	338
8.65	Phonemically-Complex Members of an Emic Class of Phonemes	339
8.66	Emic Slot-Class Units in Phonology . . . . .	340
8.67	Order or Relationship as a Conceptualized Hypostasis. . . . .	341
8.7	Phonetics . . . . .	341
8.71	Segmentation of a Continuum into Phones . . . . .	341
8.72	Etic Classificatory Criteria for Phone Types . . . . .	342
8.73	Etic Criteria for Phones in Relation to their Distribution Classes	343
8.74	Summary of the Relation of Phones to Phonemes . . . . .	343
8.8	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 8. . . . .	344
8.81	The History of Phonemics and of Articulatory Phonetics . . . . .	344
8.811	On Early Phonemics . . . . .	344
8.812	On Phonemics in the United States . . . . .	345
8.813	On Articulatory and Acoustic Phonetics . . . . .	346
8.814	On the Validity of the Phonemic Principle . . . . .	349
8.815	On Psycholinguistics . . . . .	351
8.82	On Substance . . . . .	354
8.83	On Phonetic Similarity . . . . .	355
8.84	On Feature versus Opposition, and Identification versus Contrast. . . . .	357
8.85	On Neutralization, Overlap, Archiphoneme, Intersection, and Related Matters . . . . .	359
8.86	On Emic Classes of Phonemes . . . . .	360
8.87	On the Relation of Grammar to Phonemic Analysis . . . . .	361
9.	Higher-Layered Units of the Manifestation Mode of the Uttereme (Including the Syllable, Stress Group, and Juncture) . . . . .	364
9.1	Hyperphonemes . . . . .	364
9.2	The Emic Syllable . . . . .	365

9.21	Definition of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	365
9.22	The Feature Mode of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	365
9.221	The Chest Pulse . . . . .	365
9.222	Releasing and Arresting Margins of the Syllable . . . . .	370
9.223	The Syllabic and the Syllable Nucleus . . . . .	371
9.224	The Phonemic Content of Emic Syllables . . . . .	373
9.225	The Emic Syllable as a Potential Carrier of a Unit of Pitch, Stress, Length, or Morpheme Shape Type . . . . .	373
9.23	The Manifestation Mode of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	377
9.231	Systematically-Conditioned but Topologically-Same Variants of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	378
9.232	Phonemically- and Hyperphonemically-Conditioned Variants of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	378
9.233	The Possibility of Grammatically-Conditioned Variants of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	379
9.234	Free (Unconditioned) Variants of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	379
9.235	Etically-Complex Variants of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	379
9.236	Fused versus Clearly-Segmented Variants of Emic Syllables . . . . .	380
9.237	Abbreviated Forms in Reference to Variants, Com- plexes, and Fusion . . . . .	383
9.24	The Distribution Mode of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	384
9.241	Distribution of the Emic Syllable in Larger Hyper- phonemes . . . . .	384
9.242	Distribution of the Emic Syllable in Grammatical Units . . . . .	385
9.243	Immediate Constituents of the Emic Syllable . . . . .	386
9.244	Emic Classes of Emic Syllables . . . . .	389
9.245	Emic Hyperclasses of Emic Syllables . . . . .	390
9.25	The Etics of Syllable Structure . . . . .	391
9.3	The Emic Stress Group . . . . .	392
9.31	The Feature Mode of the Emic Stress Group . . . . .	392
9.311	The Abdominal Pulse . . . . .	392
9.312	Nucleus and Margins of the Stress Group . . . . .	395
9.32	The Manifestation Mode of the Emic Stress Group . . . . .	397
9.33	The Distribution Mode of the Emic Stress Group . . . . .	399
9.4	The Emic Pause Group . . . . .	402
9.5	Further Hyperphonemes . . . . .	403
9.6	The Possibility of Contrastive-Identificational Features of Hyper- phonemes as Themselves Emes . . . . .	405

9.61	Juncture and Peak Emes: Solution A . . . . .	405
9.62	Terminal and Peak Emes: Solution B . . . . .	407
9.63	Contrastive-Identificational Features of Hyperphonemes: Solution C . . . . .	408
9.7	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 9. . . . .	409
9.71	On Pyramiding from Phoneme to Syllable versus to Morpheme . . . . .	409
9.72	On the Nature of the Syllable . . . . .	410
9.73	On the Structure of the Syllable . . . . .	413
9.74	On the Nature of the Stress Group and Juncture . . . . .	417
9.75	On Breath Groups and Pauses . . . . .	419
9.76	On the Possibility of Languages without Syllables or Stress Groups—or Vowels . . . . .	419
10.	Higher-Layered Units of the Feature Mode of the Uttereme . . . . .	424
10.1	Hypermorpheme Definition and Types . . . . .	424
10.2	The Feature Mode of the Hypermorpheme . . . . .	426
10.3	The Manifestation Mode of the Hypermorpheme . . . . .	427
10.4	The Distribution Mode of the Hypermorpheme . . . . .	428
10.5	Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 10 . . . . .	429
10.51	On Phonological Characteristics of Hypermorphemes . . . . .	429
10.52	On Hypermorphemic Meanings . . . . .	430
11.	Higher-Layered Units of the Distribution Mode of the Syntagmeme . . . . .	432
11.1	The Term OC-Hypertagmeme Tentatively Applied to Obligatorily-Complex Units. . . . .	432
11.11	Definition of Tentative Obligatorily-Complex Hypertagmeme . . . . .	433
11.12	Disadvantages and Advantages of the Definition of OC-Hypertagmeme as Obligatorily Complex. . . . .	434
11.13	An Obligatorily-Complex Structure Re-Analyzed as a Special Kind of Emic Class of Hypermorphemes . . . . .	435
11.2	The Terms RL-Hypertagmeme and RL-Tagmeme Tentatively Applied Relativistically to Levels of Focus . . . . .	436
11.21	Definition of Relativistic RL-Tagmeme and RL-Hypertagmeme . . . . .	436
11.22	Levels of Structure . . . . .	437
11.221	Word Level . . . . .	437
11.222	Phrase Level and Portmanteau Levels . . . . .	439
11.223	Clause Level. . . . .	441
11.224	Sentence Level. . . . .	441
11.225	Monologue, Utterance-Response, Conversation, and Intra-Word Levels . . . . .	442

11.23 Advantages and Disadvantages of a Relativistic RL-Hypertagmeme . . . . .	443
11.3 The Terms AL-Hypertagmeme and AL-Tagmeme Tentatively Applied in Reference to Levels as Absolute . . . . .	446
11.31 Advantages of the AL-Hypertagmeme . . . . .	447
11.32 Disadvantages of the AL-Hypertagmeme . . . . .	447
11.4 The Term Hypertagmeme (or SC-Hypertagmeme) Applied to Slot-Plus-Class Correlative on Nonminimum Levels of Structure . . . . .	448
11.41 Implications of Reworking the Hypertagmeme into a Slot-Plus-Class Correlative in Reference to Levels . . . . .	448
11.42 Advantages and Disadvantages of the Hypertagmeme as Slot-Plus-Class Correlative on Higher Levels . . . . .	451
11.43 Illustrations of Hypermorpheme Constructions (Syntagmemes) and of Slot-Plus-Class Hypertagmemes . . . . .	452
11.44 Trimodal Structuring of Hypertagmeme as Slot-Plus-Class Correlative . . . . .	459
11.5 Etics and Emics of Hypertagmemes and of Hypermorpheme Types . . . . .	467
11.51 Segmentation of Hypertagmemes and of Hypermorpheme Structures . . . . .	467
11.52 Etics of Hypertagmemes and of Syntagmemes . . . . .	469
11.53 Summary of Relation of Hypertagmas to Hypertagmemes and of Etic to Emic Classes of Hypermorphemes . . . . .	471
11.6 Tagmemic System in Reference to Kernel Matrix and Transforms. . . . .	472
11.7 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 11 . . . . .	473
11.71 On Hierarchical versus Combinatorial Grammar . . . . .	474
11.711 On Item-in-Slot versus Construction . . . . .	476
11.712 On Immediate Constituents as End Products of Analysis Rather than as Starting Points . . . . .	477
11.72 On Emic Levels of Grammatical Structure . . . . .	479
11.721 On Words and Morphology versus Syntax . . . . .	481
11.722 On Portmanteau Levels . . . . .	483
11.723 On Sentences in Relation to Higher-Level Units . . . . .	484
11.724 On Clause versus Phrase . . . . .	486
11.73 On Parts of Speech . . . . .	488
11.74 On Tagmemes née Gramemes . . . . .	490
11.75 On Discovery versus Presentation . . . . .	492
11.76 On Transform Grammar and Tagmemics . . . . .	495
11.761 On Sources of Transformational Grammar . . . . .	497
11.762 On Some Problems in Description . . . . .	498
11.763 On Intuition and Meaning. . . . .	499
11.764 On Transformation as Process . . . . .	501

11.765 On Derivational History and Tagmeme Units . . . . .	503
11.77 On Halliday's Prosodic Approach to Grammar . . . . .	506
12. Trimodal Restrictions on Setting up Emic Units. . . . .	510
12.1 Restrictions Imposed by the Trimodal View of Language as Particle, Wave, and Field . . . . .	510
12.2 The Restriction Imposed by the Retention of Simultaneous Modes. . .	513
12.3 "Spectrum" Restrictions on Emic Progression . . . . .	515
12.4 Restrictions in Solving for Modal Components . . . . .	518
12.5 Modifications Imposed by a Model which Includes Phonotagmemes	520
13. Mode-Like Emic Units and Systems . . . . .	522
13.1 Background of the Suprasegmental Problem . . . . .	522
13.2 Segmental Phonemes as Analogous to the Manifestation Mode . . .	524
13.3 Suprasegmental Phonemes as Analogous to the Feature Mode . . .	524
13.4 Subsegmental Phonemes (Voice Quality) as Analogous to the Distri- bution Mode. . . . .	525
13.5 Componential Systems of Mode-Like Emic Units. . . . .	527
13.6 Larger but Incomplete Modal Analogies. . . . .	532
13.7 Overlapping Hierarchies of Mode-Like Emic Units . . . . .	533
13.8 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 13 . . . . .	535
13.81 On Voice Quality, La Langue and La Parole . . . . .	536
13.82 On Suprasegmental Phonemes . . . . .	538
13.83 On Intonation . . . . .	539
13.84 On Tone. . . . .	541
13.85 On Communication with Abstracted Components. . . . .	543
14. Fused Units . . . . .	545
14.1 The Item-and-Arrangement (Particle) and Item-and-Process (Wave) Views of Sequence . . . . .	545
14.11 The Modal Analogy. . . . .	545
14.12 Summary of Some Fusion Types . . . . .	548
14.2 Distortion Introduced by Arbitrary Cuts and by Reconstructed Bases	550
14.3 The Hyper-Unit (Field) View of Sequence . . . . .	553
14.4 Distortion Introduced by Incomplete Segmentation . . . . .	555
14.5 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 14 . . . . .	556
14.51 On Item-and-Arrangement versus Item-and-Process . . . . .	556
14.52 On Arbitrary Cuts and Hyper-Units. . . . .	558
14.53 On Zero . . . . .	561
15. Interlocking Hierarchies and Systems . . . . .	565
15.1 Interlocking Between Hierarchies . . . . .	566
15.11 Interlocking Between the Lexical and Phonological Hierarchies	567

15.12 Interlocking Between the Phonological and Grammatical Hierarchies . . . . .	569
15.13 Interlocking Between the Lexical and Grammatical Hierarchies . . . . .	573
15.2 Interlocking Between Systems . . . . .	580
15.3 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 15 . . . . .	586
15.31 On Simplicity, Elegance, and Levels of Analysis. . . . .	586
15.32 On Mixing, Skipping, and Mashing Levels and Hierarchies. . . . .	589
15.33 On Systems . . . . .	592
15.331 On Over-All Pattern . . . . .	592
15.332 On Bilingualism . . . . .	593
15.333 On Dialects . . . . .	593
15.334 On Coexistent Systems . . . . .	593
15.335 On Style . . . . .	595
15.336 On Field and Matrix . . . . .	596
16. Meaning . . . . .	598
16.1 Meanings of Units of the Lexical Hierarchy . . . . .	598
16.11 Semantic Variants of Morphemes . . . . .	599
16.12 Central Meanings of the Hierarchy . . . . .	600
16.13 Metaphorical Meanings of the Hierarchy. . . . .	602
16.14 Collocational Meanings of the Hierarchy. . . . .	605
16.15 Class Meanings within the Lexical Hierarchy . . . . .	606
16.2 Meanings of the Phonological Hierarchy . . . . .	606
16.3 Meanings of the Grammatical Hierarchy . . . . .	607
16.4 Meanings of Componential Systems. . . . .	608
16.5 Meaning of the Total Structure and Semantic Segmentation . . . . .	608
16.6 Segmental versus Subsegmental Meanings . . . . .	610
16.7 Hypermeanings—Concepts and Ideas . . . . .	612
16.8 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 16 . . . . .	616
16.81 On the Definition or Nature of Meaning. . . . .	616
16.82 On Meaning in Relation to Structure . . . . .	620
16.821 On Sememes. . . . .	620
16.822 On Synonymy . . . . .	621
16.823 On Variants and Universals . . . . .	623
16.824 On Forms of Perception . . . . .	625
16.825 On Componential and Hierarchical Analysis of Meaning . . . . .	626
16.83 On Phonological Meaning . . . . .	628
16.84 On Grammatical Meaning . . . . .	630
16.85 On Meanings of the Lexical Hierarchy. . . . .	630
16.86 On Concept Formation . . . . .	633
16.87 On Subsegmental Meanings and Preverbal Mental Activity . . . . .	638
16.88 On Translation . . . . .	640

17. The Context of Behavior . . . . .	641
17.1 A Society as a Whole . . . . .	643
17.2 An S-Sentence-Type within Society . . . . .	649
17.21 Feature Mode of the Football S-Syntagmeme . . . . .	649
17.22 Manifestation Mode of the Football S-Syntagmeme . . . . .	650
17.23 Distribution Mode of Football S-Syntagmeme . . . . .	652
17.3 An S-Syllable within Society (the Family) . . . . .	653
17.4 The Individual . . . . .	655
17.5 Things . . . . .	658
17.6 The Struggle to Understand . . . . .	663
17.7 Bibliographical Comments on Chapter 17 . . . . .	665
17.71 On the "Grammar" of Society . . . . .	665
17.72 On Society Requisites . . . . .	668
17.73 On Role as S-Tagmemic . . . . .	670
17.74 On Personality and the Individual. . . . .	674
17.75 On Things . . . . .	676
References . . . . .	679
Index . . . . .	730