

CONTENTS

Introduction	11
Chapter I: History of the problem	15
1.1. Introduction	15
1.2. "Prehistory"	15
1.3. The structural approach	18
1.4. The functional approach	31
1.5. Concluding remarks	54
Chapter II: The nature of sentence stress	55
2.1. Introduction	55
2.2. Sentence stress as a linguistic sign	56
2.3. The information structure of sentences	60
2.4. The role of context	66
2.5. The role of participants	68
2.6. The scope of 'focus'	73
2.7. Sentence stress and category membership	76
2.8. Emphasis.....	86
2.9. A note on speech and writing	95
Chapter III: Relations of sentence stress	97
3.1. Introduction	97
3.2. Definiteness	97
3.3. Pronouns	102
3.4. Word order	104
3.5. Ellipsis	107
3.6. Topicalization	110
3.7. Cleft sentences	113
3.8. Pseudo-cleft sentences	118
3.9. Complex sentences	121

Chapter IV: Associations with focus	129
4.1. Introduction	129
4.2. Even association with focus	129
4.3. Negation association with focus	132
4.4. Question association with focus	137
4.5. Affirmation association with focus	142
Notes to Chapter IV	147
Postscript	146
References	148
Index of names	159