Table of contents

Speaking of colors and odors
Martina Plümacher and Peter Holz 1

Color, smell, and language: The semiotic nature of perception and language
Wolfgang Wildgen 19

How can language cope with color? Functional aspects of the nervous system
Manfred Fahle 35

Color perception, color description and metaphor
Martina Plümacher 61

Attractiveness and adornment: Reference to colors and smells in Papuan speech communities
Volker Heeschen 85

Color terms between elegance and beauty: The verbalization of color with textiles and cosmetics
Siegfried Wyler 113

Color names and dynamic imagery
Andrea Graumann 129

From blue stockings to blue movies: Color metonymies in English
Susanne Niemeier 141

Odor memory: The unique nature of a memory system
Gesualdo M. Zucco 155

From psychophysics to semiophysics: Categories as acts of meaning. A case study from olfaction and audition, back to colors
Danièle Dubois 167

Cognition, olfaction and linguistic creativity: Linguistic synesthesia as poetic device in cologne advertising
Peter Holz 185
Understanding synesthetic expressions: Vision and olfaction with the physiological = psychological model

Yoshikata Shibuya, Hajime Nozawa and Toshiyuki Kanamaru

Olfactory and visual processing and verbalization: Cross-cultural and neurosemiotic dimensions

Tatiana V. Chernigovskaya and Victor V. Arshavsky

Contributors

Index