

Contents

Jerzy Duma

The phonetic phenomena connected with the strengthening and weakening of sonants in Bulgarian and Macedonian dialects . . . . . 1

Thera de Jong

Parasite consonants: A homographic clash . . . . . 7

Peter R. Kitson

The nature of Old English dialect distributions, mainly as exhibited in charter boundaries . . . . . 43

Marijke Mooijaart

Geographical and linguistic distance in thirteenth-century Dutch . . 137

Margôt van Mulken

Copyist behavior: Historical linguistics and text filiation . . . . . 153

Pieter van Reenen

Contractions of preposition and plural article without s (e. g. a + les > au) in Old French, a completely overlooked problem of paradigm formation with implications for the theory of language change . . . . . 175

Ewa Rzetelska-Feleszko

Slavonic Pomerania in the past: Its links with neighboring areas and its internal division . . . . . 217

Lene Schøsler

New methods in textual criticism: The case of the Charroi de Nîmes 225

Max Siller

“Sociolectalization” as a feature in different versions of medieval drama . . . . . 277

Wolfgang Viereck

Realizations of the definite article in dialectal English and how and when they originated . . . . . 295

Laura Wright

A hypothesis on the structure of macaronic business writing . . . . . 309

Index of subjects . . . . . 323

Index of languages and dialects . . . . . 325

Index of names . . . . . 327