

Contents

Abbreviations	x
Preface and Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	1
✕ CHAPTER ONE What Is a Dictionary?	5
Dictionaries and Encyclopedias	5
A Survey of Types of Dictionaries and Other Language References	6
CHAPTER TWO A Brief History of English Lexicography	35
Latin and French Glossaries	37
Early English Dictionaries: The Seventeenth Century	38
The Beginning of Modern Dictionary Practice: The Eighteenth Century	44
Samuel Johnson's Plan	48
Johnson's Dictionary and Its Competitors	51
Pronouncing Dictionaries of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries	56

Webster and the Nineteenth Century	59
Modern Unabridged Dictionaries	64
The Oxford English Dictionary and Other Historical Dictionaries	66
College Dictionaries	72
CHAPTER THREE Key Elements of Dictionaries and Other Language References	76
X. The Entry Term	76
• Alphabetization	82
Entry Counting	84
• Grammatical Information	88
Pronunciation	92
• Etymology	98
• Synonyms and Synonym Discussions	104
• Roget's Thesaurus	106
Conceptually vs. Alphabetically Arranged Thesauruses	107
• Dictionary Treatment of Synonymy	110
Illustrations	111
• Front and Back Matter	115
CHAPTER FOUR Definition	120
• Kinds of Meaning	122
• The Principles of Defining	124
• Good Defining Practice	132
• How to Define by Part of Speech	138
• Common Mistakes in Defining	144
• The Citation File	151
• Defining from Citations	158
• Deciding What to Put in the Dictionary	161
How Useful Are Citation Files?	163

Illustrative Quotations	166
The Definition of Names	167
Other Sources of Definition	170
CHAPTER FIVE Usage	174
The Kinds of Usage Information Given in Dictionaries	175
Attitudes Toward Usage and the Notion of Correctness	194
Some Proposals for Improving Dictionary Treatment of Usage	216
The Dictionary of American Regional English	221
CHAPTER SIX Dictionary Making	226
Planning the Dictionary	227
Writing the Dictionary	252
Producing the Dictionary	261
Revising a Dictionary	267
Abridging a Dictionary	269
CHAPTER SEVEN Computer Use and the Future of Dictionary Making	272
Current Computer Uses in Lexicography	273
The Future of Dictionary Making	288
CHAPTER EIGHT A Miscellany	294
Letters to the Editor	294
Legal Considerations	296
The Dictionary as a Reflection of Social Values	302
Criticism of Dictionaries	304

CONTENTS

Notes	311
A Critical Bibliography of Selected Monolingual Dictionaries	333
A Selective Bibliography of Nondictionary Sources	354
Index	359