

Contents

Preface	vii
Notes on the contributors	xi
On language policy in the age of globalization with good governance Takao Katsuragi	1
Thrifty monolingualism and luxuriating plurilingualism? Konrad Ehlich	19
Challenges for language policy in today's Japan Nanette Gottlieb	33
Is the promotion of languages such as German and Japanese abroad still appropriate today? Ulrich Ammon	53
Japanese and German language education in the UK: problems, parallels, and prospects Tessa Carroll	71
Changing economic values of German and Japanese Fumio Inoue	95
The debate on English as an official language in Japan Patrick Heinrich	115

Remains of the day: language orphans and the decline of German as a medical lingua franca in Japan John Maher	141
The case for choice – language preferences in Japanese academic publishing Florian Coulmas	155
Tokio or Tokyo? Dschudo or Judo? On writing foreign names Elmar Holenstein	173
Effects of globalization on minority languages in Europe – focusing on Celtic languages Kiyoshi Hara	191
Index	207