

Contents

Preface	ix
An Invitation . . .	ix
Extended to . . .	xii
Everyone	xii
Students	xii
Professionals	xv
With Appreciation for . . .	xv
Chapter 1 Critical Moments that Shape Our Social Worlds	1
Preview	1
A Critical Moment in a 911 Emergency Telephone Call	1
Why Acting Wisely in Critical Moments is Important:
We're in a Race that We Need to Win	6
9/11: A Missed Opportunity to Act Wisely in a Critical Moment	12
What happened?	12
How was the story told?	13
How did President Bush respond?	16
Could President Bush have responded in another way?	17
Examples of acting wisely in critical moments	18
Could President Bush have acted more wisely in the critical moment of 9/11?	21

Chapter 2 Taking a Communication Perspective on Social Worlds	29
Preview	29
Everybody Has a Theory of Communication, Although Most People Don't Know It	30
If Communication is so Important, How Should We Understand It?	30
My Discovery of Social Worlds	38
Social worlds	40
The worldliness of social worlds	41
There are many social worlds	42
Social worlds are made	48
Each of us is an agent in the process of making social worlds	52
Questions Asked by Those who Take a Communication Perspective on Social Worlds	53
Chapter 3 Paradigms and the "Physics" of Social Worlds	57
Preview	57
What was That?	58
Paradigms	58
Questions and Questioning	61
Playfulness	65
Systemic	67
Process	68
Emergent Characteristics	70
Chapter 4 Communication: Coordinating Actions and Making/Managing Meanings	78
Preview	78
Theory as a Way of Seeing Things	78
Coordinating Actions	80
Choosing "coordination" as a sensitizing concept for understanding communication	83
Understanding how patterns of communication develop and discerning critical moments	88
Acting wisely in critical moments	93
Making/Managing Meaning	95

Coherence: the gift of meaning and purpose	96
Subjugation: the cost of fitting into prefigured molds	98
Mystery: the gift of wonder and openings for exploration	98
Communication as the Site where Social Worlds are Made	100
Chapter 5 Doing Things in Communication:
Speech Acts	105
Preview	105
Speech Acts and the Quality of Our Lives	105
Our Social Worlds are Made of Speech Acts	106
Why call them “speech acts”?	108
How many speech acts are there?	109
Where do speech acts come from?	110
Speech Acts are Made in Coordinated Actions	112
Performing Speech Acts	115
What is being done by what is said?
Conversational implicature	116
To what is that a response? The conversational triplet	117
What can/must/should I do? Logical force	119
What is the wisest course of action? Ante-narrative	121
Making Better Social Worlds	122
Change the situation so that there will be a different ratio of speech acts	123
Resist or prevent the performance of undesired speech acts	124
Facilitating or enabling the performance of desired speech acts	126
Chapter 6 Episodes and Patterns of Communication	131
Preview	131
Social Life is Episodic	132
Our Social Worlds are Made of Episodes	133
Making Episodes	134
Making/managing meaning: perceiving the flow of experience as episodes	135
Realizing episodes in coordinated action	148
Patterns of Communication	157
Making Better Social Worlds	162
Freeing us up so that we can make wiser choices	162
Calling better patterns of communication into being	165

Chapter 7	Selves and Forms of Consciousness	171
	Preview	171
	Here I Am!	171
	Selves are Made in Processes of Communication	173
	Forms of Consciousness Emerge in Processes of Communication	181
	The Role of Selves in Making Social Worlds	189
	Making Better Social Worlds	191
	Is there an innate impulse toward evolution of consciousness?	192
	Is there a special kind of transformative learning?	192
	How can we support each other in our zones of proximal development?	193
	How can we structure our institutions so that they support the evolution of consciousness?	194
	Can we take proactive steps to structure better forms of communication?	195
Chapter 8	Relationships and Relational Minds	199
	Preview	199
	The Difference between Being Related and Being in Relationship	199
	Relationships and Minds as Objects in Our Social Worlds	200
	Relationships as Contexts for the Way We Communicate	204
	Making Relationships in Communication	210
	The Evolution of Relational Minds	213
	Making Better Social Worlds	216
Chapter 9	Afterword: Something of a Guide for Using CMM	224
	Warning!	224
	Ways of “Using” CMM	225
	How Do You Know if You’ve Used CMM Well?	226
	A Typical Four-phase Sequence in Using CMM	227
	Description	227
	Interpretation	228
	Critique	229
	Putting it into practice	230
	Entry Points for CMM Practice	231
	An Example of Consulting Using Systemic Questioning	232
	This is a Test . . .	239
Index		241