0	Introducing Glim	1
1	Data input and scrutiny	3
1.1	Linear models	3
1.2	The Glim package	4
1.3	Data input	6
1.4	Input from disc files	8
1.5	Formatted input	9
1.6	Looking at the data	10
1.7	Plotting	11
1.8	Histograms	13
1.9	Leaving Glim	14
1.10	Significant figures	15
2	Simple linear models	16
2.1	Fitting a linear model	16
2.2	Displaying the results	18
2.3	A larger problem	19
2.4	Regression with replicates	24
2.5	A cautionary example	29
3	Calculations	32
3.1	Arithmetic	32
3.2	Scalars	33
3.3	Functions	33
3.4	Relations and conditionals	34
3.5	Random numbers	36
3.6	Sorting	37
3.7	Normal plotting	38
3.8	Suffices	39
3.9	More on the Bird species dataset	40
4	Data in tables	46
4.1	Models for data in tables	46
4.2	Fitting models to data in tables	49
4.3	Standard errors	52
4.4	An example with three factors	54
4.5	Aliasing	58

5	Tabulation (Glim77 only)	60
5.1	Tabulating data	60
5.2	Printing tables	63
5.3	Weights	65
5.4	Grouping and mapping	66
6	Models with factors and variables as predictors	67
6.1	Parallel lines	67
6.2	Offsets	70
6.3	Covariance adjustment	70
6.4	Parallel line bioassay	73
6.5	The analysis of covariance	76
7	Counted data	80
7.1	Counted proportions	80
7.2	The fitting progress	81
7.3	Parallel logit lines	85
7.4	Tables of counted proportions	88
7.5	Binary data	92
7.6	Alternative link functions for proportions	92
7.7	Log linear models for contingency tables	94
8	Files and text	100
8.1	Channel numbers	100
8.2	Input channels	100
8.3	Output channels	102
8.4	Widths and heights	102
8.5	Dumping and restoring	103
8.6	Printing and text	103
9	Macros	106
9.1	What is a macro?	106
9.2	Simple macros, substitution	106
9.3	Macros with arguments	107
9.4	Programming with macros	109
9.5	Macros in files and subfiles	110
9.6	Macros and subsidiary input	111
9.7	Echoing macro contents	112
10	Miscellanea	113
10.1	Convergence of an iterative fit	113
10.2	Survival data	114
10.3	Gamma errors	115
10.4	Space control	118

10.5	System scalars	119
10.6	System vectors	120
10.7	Error messages and warnings	120
10.8	The $OWN and $PASS directives	121

Appendices

A	The Glim directives	122
B	Fortran-like conventions	123
C	The $DISPLAY, $ENVIRONMENT, $ERROR, and $LINK directives	125
