

CONTENTS

Introduction. ROBOT GHOSTS AND WIRED DREAMS

Japanese Science Fiction from Origins to Anime

Christopher Bolton, Istvan Csicsery-Ronay Jr., and Takayuki Tatsumi

vii

Part I. Prose Science Fiction

1. HORROR AND MACHINES IN PREWAR JAPAN

The Mechanical Uncanny in Yumeno Kyūsaku's Dogura magura

Miri Nakamura

3

2. HAS THE EMPIRE SUNK YET?

The Pacific in Japanese Science Fiction

Thomas Schnellbächer

27

3. ALIEN SPACES AND ALIEN BODIES IN JAPANESE WOMEN'S SCIENCE FICTION

Kotani Mari

47

4. SF AS HAMLET

Science Fiction and Philosophy

Azuma Hiroki

75

5. TSUTSUI YASUTAKA AND THE MULTIMEDIA PERFORMANCE OF AUTHORSHIP

William O. Gardner

83

Part II. Science Fiction Animation

6. WHEN THE MACHINES STOP

Fantasy, Reality, and Terminal Identity in Neon Genesis Evangelion and Serial Experiments: Lain

Susan J. Napier

101

7. THE MECHA'S BLIND SPOT

Patlabor 2 and the Phenomenology of Anime

Christopher Bolton

123

8. WORDS OF ALIENATION, WORDS OF FLIGHT

Loanwords in Science Fiction Anime

Naoki Chiba and Hiroko Chiba

148

9. SEX AND THE SINGLE CYBORG

Japanese Popular Culture Experiments in Subjectivity

Sharalyn Orbaugh

172

10. INVASION OF THE WOMAN SNATCHERS

The Problem of A-Life and the Uncanny in Final Fantasy: The Spirits Within

Livia Monnet

193

11. OTAKU SEXUALITY

Saitō Tamaki

222

Afterword. A VERY SOFT TIME MACHINE

From Translation to Transfiguration

Takayuki Tatsumi

250

PUBLICATION HISTORY 261

CONTRIBUTORS 263

INDEX 265