

Table of Contents

Preface	9
1 Introduction	11
1.1 Colonial Beginnings: More than a Tea Party	11
1.2 The Aesthetics of Surrogation: James Fenimore Cooper's The Pioneers	23
1.3 Literary Minstrelsy	34
1.4 Differentiating the "Mainstream"	40
1.5 The Return of the (Ethnic) Reader	43
1.6 Wieland , or the Origins of American Ventriloquism	46
2 Civilizational Critique in Herman Melville's Typee , Omoo , and Mardi	55
2.1 Civilizational Critique	57
2.2 Thoreau: Embodying the "Indian"	65
2.3 Returning the Gaze: Omoo	69
2.4 Alternative Readers	74
2.5 Tourism in Reverse: Typee Revisited	79
3 The Innocents at Sea: Whiteface Minstrelsy in Herman Melville's "Benito Cereno"	99
3.1 The Return of the Repressed	103
3.2 The Black Slave as Director	106
3.3 The White Audience	110
3.4 The Director as Minstrel	115
3.5 Whiteface Minstrelsy	120
3.6 A Black Head on a (White) Spike	124
4 Polynesian Tourism and Imaginary Whiteness: Edgar Allan Poe's The Narrative of Arthur Gordon Pym of Nantucket	131
4.1 Reverse Middle Passage	134
4.2 Ethnic Mutiny	139
4.3 White Savages and Strolling Cannibals	142
4.4 Native Figureheads, or the Absence of Ethnic Art	147
4.5 Staging the Primitive	152

4.6	The Horror of Whiteness	159
5	Medical Redface in Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter	163
5.1	Thoreau's Passage to India, Strolling Indians and Boston Brahmins.....	163
5.2	Medical Mastery in The Scarlet Letter	170
5.3	Captivity as Medical Conversion	176
5.4	Medical Warfare	180
5.5	Medical Transparency	187
5.6	Medical Competition and Hybrid Medical Practice.....	190
5.7	Red-Eye Medicine	194
5.8	Native Medical Agency, or the Myth of the Vanishing Physician.....	200
6	Flipping Open the Tent: Visual Ventriloquism and Literary Ethnography in Harriet Beecher Stowe's Uncle Tom's Cabin	207
6.1	White Documentation as Visual Ventriloquism	215
6.2	Minstrelsy and Its Opposite.....	218
6.3	Black Missionaries, Comic Syncretism	224
7	Discovering Desire through Mexican Eyes: Browntoes Minstrelsy in Kate Chopin's The Awakening	237
7.1	Peasant Life	244
7.2	Desire in Brownface.....	250
7.3	Mexico as a White State of Mind.....	261
8	Conclusion: The Emergence of Yellowface Minstrelsy	269
8.1	Ethnographic Encounters	271
8.2	Multi-Ethnic Minstrelsy	273
8.3	Literary Theaters: Rewriting the Minstrel Form	274
8.4	The Emergence of Yellowface	276
8.5	Yellowface as the Absence of Ethnic Ventriloquism: Bret Harte's "See Yup"	279
9	Works Cited.....	303