

CONTENTS

---

Foreword by S. Michael Malinconico	ix
Introduction by Albert J. Diaz	xix

I ■ Reproduction of Catalog Cards Utilizing Microforms

---

Card Reproduction by Xerox Copyflo—Allen B. Veaner and John Fraser	5
Catalog Card Sets—a Microfilm First?—John M. Carroll and Alice D. Hackett	11
Regional Approach to Catalog Card Reproduction Using Micrographic and Electrostatic Techniques— Samuel M. Boone	16
Catalog Cards for Smaller Libraries—Kenneth L. Eggleston	20
Additional Readings	23

II ■ Reproduction of Card Catalogs on Microfilm and Microfiche

---

A Working Microfilm Card Catalog—H. Matsumiya and M. Bloomfield	27
Spreading State Library Riches for Peanuts—Oliver P. Gillock and Roger H. McDonough	32
Undertaking a Subject Catalog in Microfiche—Katharine Gaines	37
The Use of Microfilm in Relation to the Retrospective and Prospective Catalogs of the Research Libraries of the New York Public Library	49
16mm Microfilm and Card Catalog Duplication—Roger L. Christian and Claudia Jordan	85

The Illinois State Library Microfilm Automated Catalog (IMAC)—Anthony W. Miele	89
Specifications for 16mm Microfilming of Library Card Catalogs—Photoduplication Service, U.S. Library of Congress	95
Additional Readings	112

III ■ COM (Computer Output Microfilm) and Library Catalogs

---

COM (Computer Output Microfilm): a brief introduction—Albert Diaz	115
The Display Medium and the Price of the Message—S. Michael Malinconico	117
Computer-Produced Microfilm Library Catalog—William A. Kozumplik and R. T. Lange	130
Computer-Output Microfilm—Doris Bolef	145
Applications and Findings—Basil Stuart-Stubbs	154
Excerpts from An Appraisal of Computer Output Microfilm for Library Catalogues —John R. Spencer	170
Library Catalogues on Microfilm—Graham Larkworthy and Cyril G. Brown	188
Library COM Applications—Samuel Memberg	193
Regional Numerical Union Catalog on Computer Output Microfiche—William E. McGrath and Donald Simon	203
The Application of Microform to Manual and Machine-readable Catalogues—D. G. R. Buckle and Thomas French	215
Automated Alternatives to Card Catalogues: the Current State of Planning and Implementation—Kenneth J. Bierman	230
Microform Library Catalogs and the LENDS Microfiche Catalog—Robert J. Greene	252
Microfilm Catalogs in a British Public Library System—Jill C. Le Croisette	261
COM Catalog Based on OCLC Records—Richard W. Meyer and John F. Knapp	267
Additional Readings	275