PART I THE BASIC BIOLOGY OF ENDOCRINE DISRUPTION

1 Introduction to Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals Andrea C. Gore .....	3
2 Endocrine Disruption and the Female Ana M. Soto, Beverly S. Rubin, and Carlos Sonnenschein .....	9
3 Endocrine Disruption in the Male Prue A. Cowin, Paul M. D. Foster, and Gail P. Risbridger .....	33
4 Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals and the Brain Deena M. Walker, and Andrea C. Gore .....	63
5 Heavy Metals as Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals Cheryl A. Dyer .....	111
6 Cellular Mechanisms of Endocrine Disruption Stuart R. Adler .....	135
7 Endocrine Disruptors, Epigenetically Induced Changes, and Transgenerational Transmission of Characters and Epigenetic States Carlos Guerrero-Bosagna, and Luis Valladares .....	175

PART II THE BIOLOGY OF EDCs IN HUMANS

8 Implications of Thyroid Hormone Signaling Through the Phosphoinositide-3 Kinase for Xenobiotic Disruption of Human Health David L. Armstrong .....	193
9 Endocrine Disruption and Reproductive Outcomes in Women Sarah Janssen, Victor Y. Fujimoto, and Linda C. Giudice .....	203
10 Epidemiologic Evidence on the Relationship Between Environmental Endocrine Disruptors and Male Reproductive and Developmental Health Russ Hauser, Julia S. Barthold, and John D. Meeker .....	225

11	Human Exposures and Body Burdens of Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals Antonia M. Calafat, and Larry L. Needham .....	253

PART III IMPLICATIONS AND MITIGATIONS OF EDCs

12	Policy Implications of Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals in Humans Tracey J. Woodruff .....	271
13	Talking With Patients and the Public About Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals Gina Solomon and Sarah Janssen .....	289
14	Community Interventions to Reduce Exposure to Chemicals with Endocrine-Disrupting Properties Barbara Brenner and Maida Galvez .....	309
15	What Can We Do About Endocrine-Disrupting Chemicals? Joseph W. Thornton .....	329
	Index .....	349
