

Contents

List of Figures	xiii
List of Tables	xiv
Preface	xv

Part I. International Trade Modeling

1. The Volume and Structure of Trade	3
1.1. Ricardian Comparative Advantage	4
1.2. Ricardian Model: Continuum of Goods	7
1.3. Production and Factor Rewards	10
1.4. Factor Abundance and Trade	19
1.5. Factor Content and Global Equilibrium	21
1.6. Optimization, Duality, and Consumption	25
1.7. Minimum Cost Function and Factor Demand	30
1.8. Revenue Function and Global Equilibrium	31
1.9. Trade with Many Goods and Factors	34
1.10. Conclusions	37
1.11. Appendix	37
2. Intra-industry Trade	39
2.1. Explaining Intra-industry Trade	40
2.2. Trade, Varieties, and Decreasing Costs	42
2.3. Intra-industry Trade with Transport Costs	52
2.4. Factor Abundance and IIT	54
2.5. Intra-industry Trade: HO–Ricardo View	58
2.6. Characteristics and Vertical IIT	65
2.7. Quality Differentiation by National Origin	67
2.8. Trade Empirics: Quantity, Variety, and Quality	69
2.9. Conclusions	71
2.10. Appendix	71
3. Trade Empirics	76
3.1. Factor Content and the Leontief Paradox	77
3.2. Productivity Differentials and Home Bias	81
3.3. Testing Weak Factor Content Restrictions	90
3.4. International Factor Prices	92
3.5. Trade, Factor Content, and Wages	96
3.6. The Gravity Theory of Bilateral Trade	99

3.7.	Trade Barriers, Home Bias, and Integration	103
3.8.	Which Trade Model Performs Best?	108
3.9.	Exportation, Product Cycles, and Patents	115
3.10.	Exports and Productivity	118
3.11.	Are Terms of Trade Effects Significant?	121
3.12.	Conclusions	123
3.13.	Appendix	123
4.	Geography and Location	126
4.1.	What Causes Agglomeration?	128
4.2.	Modeling Agglomeration and Location	130
4.3.	Dynamics of Core-periphery Structures	133
4.4.	Preferential Agreements and Location	138
4.5.	North-South vs South-South Integration	140
4.6.	Geographical Empirics	143
4.7.	Conclusions	151
5.	Migration and Foreign Investment	153
5.1.	Migration and Migrant Characteristics	154
5.2.	Modeling the Effects of Migration and Quotas	160
5.3.	Technology, Migration, and Terms of Trade	162
5.4.	Brain Drain and Source Country Impact	163
5.5.	FDI and Multinationals	165
5.6.	Types of FDI and Modes of Entry	167
5.7.	Modeling FDI vs Exportation	172
5.8.	FDI: Motives and Accomplishments	176
5.9.	Are Exports and FDI Substitutes or Complements?	179
5.10.	Intra-industry FDI	181
5.11.	Cross-border M&As and Competition	182
5.12.	Merger Evaluation in an Open Economy	184
5.13.	Conclusions	186
5.14.	Appendix	186
6.	Growth, Trade, and FDI	188
6.1.	Endogenous Growth through R&D	189
6.2.	Quality Ladders	193
6.3.	Comparative Advantage and Learning	197
6.4.	Leapfrogging through Breakthroughs	201
6.5.	Does Greater Trade Lead to Faster Growth?	206
6.6.	Convergence, Poverty, and Inequality	207
6.7.	The Linkages between FDI and Growth	212
6.8.	Conclusions	213

Part II. Strategic Trade, Competition, and Environment

7. Competition and Rivalry	217
7.1. How do Competition Policies Differ?	218
7.2. International Competition Policy	220
7.3. Strategic Export Subsidization	221
7.4. Subsidies Sustain the Stackelberg Outcome	226
7.5. Bilateral Export Subsidization	228
7.6. Distorting Export Subsidy Financing	233
7.7. Has Export Promotion Worked?	236
7.8. Politics, Competition, and Policy Collusion	241
7.9. Environmental Regulation: A Primer	244
7.10. Corrective and Strategic Environmental Protection	245
7.11. Industrial Policy in Alternative Frameworks	247
7.12. Conclusions	251
7.13. Appendix	252
8. Strategies and the Mode of Competition	258
8.1. Bertrand vs Cournot Equilibria	259
8.2. Export Taxes under Price Competition	263
8.3. Strategic Complements and Substitutes	266
8.4. Bilateral Intervention with Price Competition	270
8.5. Multiple Instruments and Targeting	271
8.6. Intervention when Firms Move First	272
8.7. Endogenous Mode of Competition	276
8.8. Conclusions	277
8.9. Appendix	277
9. Trade under Asymmetric Information	285
9.1. Incompletely Informed Policymaker	287
9.2. Trade Policy in a Separating Equilibrium	289
9.3. Single-crossing Property Condition	293
9.4. Uniform Policy vs Policy Menus	295
9.5. Free vs Strategic Trade	297
9.6. Tax Distortions and Continuous Types	304
9.7. Nonlinear Subsidies	307
9.8. Conclusions	310
9.9. Appendix	310

Part III. Innovation, Skills, and Contracts

10. Innovation, Research, and Learning	321
10.1. International R&D Rivalry	322
10.2. Strategic and Corrective R&D Policies	326

10.3. R&D Policies when there are Spillovers	330
10.4. Diffusion of Knowledge: The Evidence	332
10.5. The Economics of Learning-By-Doing	338
10.6. Airbus vs Boeing	340
10.7. Research vs Development	342
10.8. R&D and Growth Policies	348
10.9. Conclusions	354
10.10. Appendix	354
11. Information and Moral Hazard	358
11.1. Sequential Equilibrium	359
11.2. Do Information Barriers Justify Protection?	360
11.3. Infant Exporter and Adverse Selection	367
11.4. Informational Barriers and Market Power	371
11.5. Price Competition and Quality Choice	378
11.6. What is the Optimal Infant Export Policy?	380
11.7. Conclusions	381
12. Networks and Outsourcing	382
12.1. Business Groups and Social Networks	383
12.2. Networks and Informational Barriers	387
12.3. Endogenous Outsourcing	391
12.4. Global vs Domestic Outsourcing	394
12.5. Submodularity and Supermodularity	398
12.6. Trade and the Allocation of Diverse Talents	401
12.7. Incomplete Information and Imperfect Contracts	405
12.8. Conclusions	407
 Part IV. Liberalization, Protection, and Sanctions
13. Trade Liberalization and Protection	411
13.1. Measuring Trade Barriers	412
13.2. The Classical Theory of Distortions	417
13.3. Welfare Effects of Trade Restrictions	420
13.4. Why are Trade Liberalizations Gradual?	421
13.5. What is the Impact of Trade Liberalization?	423
13.6. Is Free Trade Good or Bad for the Environment?	426
13.7. Protection: Pros and Cons	427
13.8. Rent Extraction	429
13.9. Tariff Discrimination and MFN Clause	432
13.10. Can Protection Promote Exports?	436
13.11. Technology Adoption under Protection	437
13.12. Import Quotas	441

13.13. Voluntary Export Restrictions	442
13.14. US VERs on Japanese Autos	445
13.15. The Multi-Fiber Arrangement	446
13.16. Local Content Requirements	448
13.17. Policy-driven FDI: Tariff-Jumping FDI	449
13.18. Conclusions	450
14. Dumping, Market Access, and Sanctions	452
14.1. Why Does Dumping Take Place?	453
14.2. Economics of Reciprocal Dumping	457
14.3. Antidumping Policy	461
14.4. Antidumping in the United States and Europe	465
14.5. Exports and Endogenous Protection Uncertainty	469
14.6. Quid Pro Quo Foreign Investment	471
14.7. FDI as Antidumping-jumping	475
14.8. Dumping in Anticipation of VERs	478
14.9. Section 301: Theory and Evidence	480
14.10. Market Access Policies	483
14.11. Conclusions	489
14.12. Appendix	490
Part V. Trade Politics and Regionalism
15. Trade Politics	495
15.1. Rent-seeking and Endogenous Policy	495
15.2. Trade Policy with Specific Factors	501
15.3. Policy under the Influence	504
15.4. Equilibrium Trade Policies and Lobbies	510
15.5. Protection for Sale: The Evidence	513
15.6. A Global Specific-factor Trade Model	518
15.7. Trade Wars: Noncooperative Policies	520
15.8. Trade Talks: Cooperative Trade Policies	522
15.9. Caps on Lobbying and Elections	524
15.10. The Dynamics of Trade Politics	526
15.11. Conclusions	528
15.12. Appendix	529
16. Preferential Trade Arrangements	534
16.1. Types of Preferential Agreements	534
16.2. Rationales for Preferential Agreements	535
16.3. Estimating the Welfare Effects of PTAs	539
16.4. Why Unilaterally Join an FTA?	543
16.5. Political Viability of Bilateral FTAs	549

16.6. Accommodating Preferential Arrangements	557
16.7. Conclusions	558
16.8. Appendix	559
17. International Economic Politics	562
17.1. Regionalism and Global Welfare	563
17.2. Stumbling Blocks to Multilateralism	567
17.3. Building Blocks to Multilateralism	569
17.4. Endogenous Regionalism	571
17.5. Regional or Multilateral Negotiations?	574
17.6. Reform, FDI, and Technology Transfer	576
17.7. Conclusions	583
17.8. Appendix	584
Part VI. WTO and International Cooperation
18. The Economics of the WTO	591
18.1. Reciprocity, Consensus, and Bindings	592
18.2. Nondiscrimination Principles	597
18.3. Free Rider Problem of the MFN Clause	599
18.4. Export Subsidies and the WTO	600
18.5. Modeling the Welfare Role of the WTO	603
18.6. Negotiating under WTO Rules	607
18.7. International Environmental Agreements	613
18.8. Labor Standards	615
18.9. Conclusions	618
18.10. Appendix	620
19. Cooperative Agreements	623
19.1. Self-enforceable Cooperation	624
19.2. The Most-cooperative Tariff Rate	627
19.3. Trade Diversion and Transition to a Free Trade Area	632
19.4. Market Power and CU Transition	635
19.5. Multilateral Sanctions and Negotiations	638
19.6. Negotiation, Enforcement, and Delays	652
19.7. WTO, Core, and Shapley Value	653
19.8. Conclusions	662
19.9. Appendix	663
References	673
Index	703