Contents

Catrin Gersdorf and Sylvia Mayer
Nature in literary and cultural studies: defining the subject of ecocriticism – an introduction 9

THEORIZING THE NATURE OF ECOCRITICISM

Louise Westling
Literature, the environment, and the question of the posthuman 25

Hubert Zapf
The state of ecocriticism and the function of literature as cultural ecology 49

Christa Grewe-Volpp
Nature “out there” and as “a social player”: some basic consequences for a literary ecocritical analysis 71

Simone Birgitt Hartmann
Feminist and postcolonial perspectives on ecocriticism in a Canadian context: toward a ‘situated’ literary theory and practice of ecofeminism and environmental justi 87

Sylvia Mayer
Literary studies, ecofeminism and environmentalist knowledge production in the humanities 111

LOCATING NATURE IN LANGUAGE, LITERATURE, AND EVERYDAY CULTURE

Beatrix Busse
(Historical) ecolinguistics and literary analysis 131
Hannes Bergthaller
“Trees are what everyone needs:” The Lorax, anthropocentrism, and the problem of mimesis 155

Ursula K. Heise
Afterglow: Chernobyl and the everyday 177

Christine Gerhardt
“Syllabled to us for names”: Native American echoes in Walt Whitman’s green poetics 209

Tonia L. Payne
“We are dirt: we are earth”: Ursula Le Guin and the problem of extraterrestrialism 229

Christian Krug
Virtual tourism: the consumption of natural and digital environments 249

Andrew A. Liston
Gertrud Leutenegger’s metanoic narrative Kontinent 275

NATURE, LITERATURE AND THE SPACE OF THE NATIONAL

Irena Ragaišienė
Nature/place, memory, and identity in the poetry of Lithuanian émigré Danutė Paškevičiūtė 291

Colin Riordan
German literature, nature and modernity before 1914 313

Caroline Delph
Nature and nationalism in the writings of Ernst Moritz Arndt (1769-1860) 331

Simon Meacher
It was shown in the way they stepped in the woods: nature in Hermann Löns and Edward Thomas 355
Katharine Griffiths
The aesthetic appreciation of nature as a reaction to dictatorship: disjunction and dissidence in the Inner Emigration 373

Axel Goodbody
From egocentrism to ecocentrism: nature and morality in German writing in the 1980s 393

ETHICS OF NATURE

Patrick D. Murphy
Grounding anotherness and answerability through allonational ecoliterature formations 417

Thomas Claviez
Ecology as moral stand(s): environmental ethics, Western moral philosophy, and the problem of the Other 435

Timo Maran
Where do your borders lie? Reflections on the semiotical ethics of nature 455

Notes on contributors 477

Index 485