

Table of Contents

Chapter 1	From the Beginnings to 1800	9
	1 Literature in Irish	9
	2 Early Literature in English	11
	3 Historical Studies	12
Chapter 2	The Eighteenth Century	14
	1 Jonathan Swift	14
	2 George Berkeley and Edmund Burke	20
	3 The Revival of Older Forms of Poetry	21
	4 Patriotic Poetry	23
	5 Exiles and Emigrants	25
Chapter 3	The Nineteenth Century up to the Celtic Renaissance: Poetry	28
	1 Thomas Moore	28
	2 The Nation and 'Young Ireland' Poets	30
	3 Scholars and Antiquarians	32
	4 James Clarence Mangan	33
	5 Ferguson's Contemporaries	35
Chapter 4	The Nineteenth Century up to the Celtic Renaissance: Fiction	36
	1 Precursors of the Irish Novel	36
	2 Regional and Big-House Novels, 'Strangers-in-Ireland': Maria Edgeworth, Lady Morgan	38
	3 From National Tales to Character Sketches: The Banims, Mrs. S. C. Hall, Gerald Griffin	44
	4 Fiction of the Irish Peasantry: William Carleton	49
	5 Popular Novels and Stage-Irishry: Charles Lever, Samuel Lover	53
	6 Novels of Mystery and the Supernatural: Joseph Sheridan Le Fanu, Bram Stoker	56
	7 Rural Portraits: Charles Kickham, Emily Lawless	57
	8 The Big House Revisited: Edith Somerville, Martin Ross	58
Chapter 5	The Irish Renaissance	61
	1 The Gaelic Revival	61
	2 The Irish Literary Movement	62
	3 The Irish Dramatic Movement	66

Chapter 6	The Twentieth Century: Poetry from W. B. Yeats to World War II	70
	1 William Butler Yeats	70
	2 Some 'Renaissance' Poets: George William Russell, James Stephens, Oliver St. John Gogarty	74
	3 Poetry in Opposition to Yeats: Austin Clarke, F.R. Higgins, Padraic Fallon, James Joyce	75
	4 Avant-Garde Poetry: Samuel Beckett, Thomas MacGreevy, Denis Devlin, Brian Coffey	78
	5 Austin Clarke: From Medievalist to Satirist	79
	6 Patrick Kavanagh: Poet of the Quotidian	80
	7 Modernist Poetry and Poems about the Protestant Planters: Louis MacNeice, John Hewitt	81
Chapter 7	The Twentieth Century: Drama from the Irish Renaissance to World War II	83
	1 Irish Drama Takes Shape	83
	2 Poetic Drama: William Butler Yeats	84
	3 Peasant Plays: Lady Gregory	88
	4 Poetic Realism: John Millington Synge	89
	5 Ibsenism, Realistic Comedies and Tragedies: Edward Martyn, William Boyle, T.C. Murray, George Fitzmaurice, Lennox Robinson, George Shiels	93
	6 Sean O'Casey: Slum Plays to Expressionism	96
	7 Post-Treaty Plays: Paul Vincent Carroll, Louis D'Alton	99
	8 The Dublin Gate Theatre Society	99
	9 Denis Johnston: Experimental Playwright	100
Chapter 8	The Twentieth Century: Fiction from the Irish Renaissance to World War II	102
	1 Fiction during the Irish Renaissance	102
	2 The Priest Novel	103
	3 George Moore: Man of Letters	103
	4 Fairy Tales and Fantasies: James Stephens, Forrest Reid	106
	5 Fiction about Rural Settings: Daniel Corkery, Seumas O'Kelly	107
	6 James Joyce: Fictionist Extraordinaire	108
	7 Post-Treaty Realists: Sean O'Faolain, Frank O'Connor, Liam O'Flaherty	116
	8 Explorers of Consciousness: Kate O'Brien, Elizabeth Bowen	119
	9 Mystical Fiction: Francis Stuart	121
	10 Ruthless Realists: Francis MacManus, Michael MacLaverty, Brinsley MacNamara	122
	11 Fabulists: Eimar O'Duffy, Austin Clarke, Merwyn Wall	123

Chapter 9	From World War II to the Present: Poetry	126
	1 A Diversity of Modes	126
	2 Voices of Tradition: Richard Murphy, John Montague, Thomas Kinsella	126
	3 Redefining Traditions: Seamus Heaney, Michael Longley, Derek Mahon, Brendan Kennelly, Michael Hartnett	130
	4 Language at Play: Paul Durcan, Ciaran Carson, Paul Muldoon	135
	5 Female Perspectives: Eavan Boland, Eiléan Ní Chuilleanáin, Medbh McGuckian	138
Chapter 10	From World War II to the Present: Drama	140
	1 Innovative Exercises in Metaphysics: Samuel Beckett	140
	2 Realism and Experiment: M.J. Molloy, Brendan Behan, Hugh Leonard, John B. Keane, Eugene McCabe, Tom McIntyre, Thomas Kilroy	141
	3 Master Playwrights: Brian Friel, Thomas Murphy	145
	4 Explorations of the Past: Stewart Parker, Billy Roche, Frank McGuinness, Sebastian Barry	147
	5 Female Views: Christina Reid, Anne Devlin, Marina Carr	149
	6 Recent Voices: Martin McDonagh, Conor McPherson	150
Chapter 11	From World War II to the Present: Fiction	151
	1 A Diversity of Genres	151
	2 Experimental Fiction: Samuel Beckett	152
	3 Historical Novelists: Sam Hanna Bell, Walter Macken	153
	4 Metafiction and Satire: Flann O'Brien	154
	5 Portraits of Ulster and Dublin: Mary Lavin, Benedict Kiely, James Plunkett	155
	6 Autobiographical Fiction: Aidan Higgins	156
	7 Tenacious Realists: Brian Moore, William Trevor, John McGahern, Bernard MacLaverty	157
	8 Women Novelists: Edna O'Brien, Jennifer Johnston, Julia O'Faolain	160
	9 Prose as Dense as Poetry: John Banville	162
	10 Recent Novelists: Dermot Healy, Neil Jordan, Eilís Ní Dhuibhne, Patrick McCabe, Colm Tóibín, Roddy Doyle, Dermot Bolger	164
	11 Promising Talents	166
Appendix	Bibliography	167