

Contents

Introduction Fiona Becket and Terry Gifford	7
Journey to the Heart of Stone Val Plumwood	17
What is (ecological) ‘nature’? John Stuart Mill and the Victorian Perspective John Parham	37
Fear and Flowers in Anya Gallaccio’s Forest Floor , Keep off the Grass , Glaschu and Repens Judith Rugg	55
Like a Ship to be Tossed: Emersonian Environmentalism and Marilynne Robinson’s Housekeeping Hannes Bergthaller	75
In the Mirror of Middle Earth: Langland’s use of the world as a book and what we can make of it Gillian Rudd	99
Poodles and Curs: Eugenic Comedy in Ibsen’s An Enemy of the People Greg Garrard	115
The Hunter as Nature-Lover: Idyll, aggression and ecology in the German animal stories of Otto Alscher Axel Goodbody	135

Postcolonialism, Ecocriticism and the Animal in Recent Canadian Fiction
Graham Huggan	161
Barry MacSweeney's Moorland Romance
Matthew Jarvis	181
Painting Landscape: Mediating Dislocation
Judith Tucker	197
Modernity and the Politics of Place in Luis Trenker's Der verlorene Sohn
Guinevere Narraway	215
Heidegger and Merleau-Ponty: Eco-poetics and the Problem of Humanism
Louise Westling	233
Notes on Contributors	249
Index	253