

Contents

Notes on Contributors		vii
Acknowledgments		xi
Introduction	Placing the Plays of Christopher Marlowe: Fresh Cultural Contexts Sara Munson Deats and Robert A. Logan	1
Part 1 Marlowe and the Theater
1	“Mark this show”: Magic and Theater in Marlowe’s Doctor Faustus Sara Munson Deats	13
2	Marlowe’s Edward II and the Early Playhouse Audience Ruth Lunney	25
3	Edmund Kean, Anti-Semitism, and The Jew of Malta Stephanie Moss	43
Part 2 Marlowe And The Family
4	The Hopeless Daughter of a Hapless Jew: Father and Daughter in Marlowe’s The Jew of Malta Lagretta Tallent Lenker	63
5	A Study in Ambivalence: Mothers and Their Sons in Christopher Marlowe Joyce Karpay	75
6	Masculinity, Performance, and Identity: Father/Son Dyads in Christopher Marlowe’s Plays Merry G. Perry	93
Part 3 Marlowe, Ethics, and Religion
7	Almost Famous, Always Iterable: Doctor Faustus as Meme of Academic Performativity Rick Bowers	113

8	Misbelief, False Profession, and The Jew of Malta William M. Hamlin	125
9	Doctor Faustus and the Early Modern Language of Addiction Deborah Willis	135
10	Rhetorical Strategies for a locus terribilis : Senses, Signs, Symbols, and Theological Allusion in Marlowe's The Massacre at Paris Christine McCall Probes	149
11	Barabas and Charles I John Parker	167
Part 4 Marlowe and Shakespeare
12	Marlowe, Shakespeare, and the Theoretically Irrelevant Author Constance Brown Kuriyama	185
13	"Glutted with Conceit": Imprints of Doctor Faustus on The Tempest Robert A. Logan	193
14	Christopher Marlowe: The Late Years David Bevington	209
	Comprehensive Bibliography	223
	Index	245