

Contents

Introduction to the handbook series Karlfried Knapp and Gerd Antos	v
Acknowledgements	xvii
Introduction: Shifting boundaries and emergent public spheres Veronika Koller and Ruth Wodak	1
I. Theoretical foundations
1. Language, communication and the public sphere: Definitions Scott Wright	21
2. Public space, common goods, and private interests: Emergent definitions in globally mediated humanity Phil Graham	45
3. Media discourse and the naturalisation of categories Nick Couldry	67
4. Language, communication and the public sphere: A perspective from feminist critical discourse analysis Michelle M. Lazar	89
II. Language and communication in business
5. Advertisements and Public Relations Guy Cook	113
6. Language and communication design in the marketplace Gerlinde Mautner	131
7. Identity, image, impression: Corporate self-promotion and public reactions Veronika Koller	155
8. Creating a “green” image in the public sphere: Corporate environmental reports in a genre perspective Aud Solbjørg Skulstad	181
9. Britain™ and “corporate” national identity Lidia De Michelis	203

III. Language and communication in politics

10. Political terminology Paul A. Chilton	223
11. Rhetoric of political speeches Martin Reisigl	243
12. Dissemination and implementation of political concepts Florian Oberhuber	271
13. The contribution of critical linguistics to the analysis of discriminatory prejudices and stereotypes in the language of politics Ruth Wodak	291
14. Tabloidisation of political communication in the public sphere Werner Holly	317

IV. Language and communication in the media

15. News genres Theo van Leeuwen	343
16. Specific genre features of new mass media Helmut Gruber	363
17. Specific debate formats of mass media Kay Richardson	383
18. The sounds of silence in the media: Censorship and self-censorship Christine Anthonissen	401
19. Technology, democracy and participation in space Rodney H. Jones	429
Biographical notes	447
Index	453