

Contents

Preface vii

Introduction 1

1. Preparing Viewers and Views: Distribution, Promotion, and Exhibition 5

Key Objectives 5

VIEWING CUES: Your Knowledge of Film 9

Distribution: What We Can See 10

Distributing Different Views 10

Video and Television Distribution 14

Distribution Timing 15

The Repeat Viewer 17

VIEWING CUES: Distribution 18

IN FOCUS: Distributing Four Weddings and a Funeral (1994)

Marketing and Promotion: What We Want to See 21

Promoting Our Interest 21

Advertising and Ratings 23

Word of Mouth 25

VIEWING CUES: Promotion 27

IN FOCUS: Promoting The Crying Game (1992) 28

Movie Exhibition: The Where, When, and How of Movie Experiences 30

The Changing Contexts of Film Exhibition 30

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Watching Film and Television 32

IN FOCUS: Exhibiting Citizen Kane (1941) 34

The Timing of Exhibition 36

VIEWING CUES: Exhibition 37

Critical Voices: Douglas Gomery on Exhibition 38

The Next Level: Additional Sources 39

PART I
COMPOSITIONS: FILM SCENES, SHOTS,
CUTS, AND SOUNDS 41

2. Exploring a Material World: Mise-en-Scène 42

Key Objectives 42

The Foundations of Mise-en-Scène 44

Settings and Sets 44

A Short History of Mise-en-Scène 46

IN FOCUS: Sets and Settings in Meet Me in St. Louis (1944) 48

VIEWING CUES: Sets/Settings 50

The Elements of Mise-en-Scène: Props, Actors, Costumes, and Lights 51

Props 51

Staging: Performance and Blocking 52

Costumes and Make-Up 57

Lighting 58

VIEWING CUES: Elements of Mise-en-Scène 60

IN FOCUS: From Props to Lighting in Do the Right Thing (1989) 61

Points of View: Values and Traditions of Mise-en-Scène 64

To Condition and to Measure 64

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Movie Spectaculars 65

Two Traditions: Naturalistic and Theatrical Mise-en-Scènes 67

IN FOCUS: Values and Traditions in The Bicycle Thief (1948) 70

VIEWING CUES: Mise-en-Scène Traditions and Values 72

Critical Voices: Béla Balázs on the Face of Greta Garbo 72

The Next Level: Additional Sources 74

3. Seeing through the Image: Cinematography 75

Key Objectives 75

The Foundations of Cinematography 76

The Shot: Frame, Depth, and Movement 77

A Short History of the Cinematic Image 78

VIEWING CUES: Frame, Depth, and Movement 81

IN FOCUS: Frames and Movements in The Grand Illusion (1937) 82

Framed and Focused: Elements of Cinematography 84

The Spaces, Angles, and Distances of the Film Image 84

The Moving Frame 91

Animation and Special Effects 93

IN FOCUS: From Angles to Animation in Vertigo (1958) 94

VIEWING CUES: Elements of Cinematography 97

Points of View: Values and Traditions of the Film Image 97

To Present or to Represent 98

Presence and Text: Two Traditions of the Film Image 100

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Digital Cinema	102
IN FOCUS: Values and Traditions in M (1931)	104
VIEWING CUES: Values and Traditions of the Film Image	107
Critical Voices : John Belton on the Widescreen Image	107
The Next Level : Additional Sources	108

4. Relating Images: Editing 110

Key Objectives 110

The Foundations of Editing 112

The Cut 113

Other Shot Transitions 114

A Short History of Editing 115

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Changing Pace, Changing Technology 119

IN FOCUS: Cutting to the Chase in The General (1927) 122

VIEWING CUES: Cuts and Other Edits 125

The Patterns and Logic of Editing 125

Editing Narrative Space and Time 125

Spatial Continuity 126

Temporal Relations 133

Abstract Editing: Shape and Surfaces, Movements and Rhythms 136

Editing from Scene to Scene 139

IN FOCUS: Patterns of Editing in Bonnie and Clyde (1967) 140

VIEWING CUES: The Patterns and Logic of Editing 144

Points of View: Values and Traditions of Film Editing 145

To Generate Emotions and Ideas, to Move beyond Individual Perception 145

Two Traditions: Continuity and Disjunctive Editing Styles 147

Converging Traditions 155

VIEWING CUES: Editing Traditions and Values 157

IN FOCUS: Montage from The Battleship Potemkin (1925) to The Untouchables (1987) 158

Critical Voices: Vsevolod Pudovkin on Editing 162

The Next Level: Additional Sources 164

5. Listening to the Cinema: Film Sound 166

Key Objectives 166

The Foundations of Film Sound 167

Sound and Image 168

A Short History of Film Sound 170

The Techniques of Film Sound 176

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Cinematic Sensations 178

VIEWING CUES: Elements of Film Sound 180

IN FOCUS: Sound and Image in Singin' in the Rain (1952) 181

Elements of the Film Soundtrack: Voice, Music, Sound Effects	184
Voice in Film	184
Music in Film	190
Sound Effects in Film	196
IN FOCUS: Subjectivity through Sound in The Piano (1993)	197
VIEWING CUES: Voice, Music, and Sound Effects	200
Points of View: Values and Traditions of Film Sound	200
To Authenticate and to Feel	200
Two Traditions: Sound Continuity and Sound Montage	202
VIEWING CUES Film Sound Traditions and Values	206
IN FOCUS: Values and Traditions in The Conversation (1974)	207
Critical Voices : Mary Ann Doane on Editing	210
The Next Level : Additional Sources	211

PART II

ORGANIZATIONS: FROM STORIES TO GENRES 213

6. Telling Stories about Time: Narrative Films 214

Key Objectives 214

The Foundations of Narrative Film 215

Stories and Plots 216

A Short History of Narrative Film 218

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Japanese Cinema and the Benshi 219

VIEWING CUES: Story, Plot, and Narration 220

IN FOCUS: Plot and Narration in Apocalypse Now (1979) 221

Narrative Characters 224

Character Motivation 224

Character Coherence 225

Character Types 227

Character Development 228

IN FOCUS: Characters in Casablanca (1942) 230

VIEWING CUES: Narrative Characters 232

Narrative Times and Places: Shapes and Strategies in Film Narrative 232

Diegetic and Nondiegetic 232

Temporal Schemes 234

Placing Stories 237

Narration and Narrators 239

IN FOCUS: Narrative Space and Time in The Searchers (1956) 242

VIEWING CUES: Narrative Times and Places 246

Points of View: Values and Traditions of Film Narrative 246

To Shape Memory and to Make History 247

Two Traditions: Classical and Alternative Narratives	248
VIEWING CUES: Film Narrative Traditions and Values	251
IN FOCUS: Narrative Value in Mildred Pierce (1945) and Daughters of the Dust (1991)	252
Critical Voices : Manthia Diawara on Race in Narrative Film	254
The Next Level : Additional Sources	256

7. Other Cinematic Shapes: Documentary and Experimental Films 257

Key Objectives 257

The Foundations of Documentary and Experimental Films 259

Nonfiction and Non-Narrative 259

A Short History of Documentary and Experimental Film Practices 261

IN FOCUS: Nonfiction and Non-Narrative in Man of Aran (1934) and Meshes of the Afternoon (1943) 264

VIEWING CUES: Nonfiction and Non-Narrative 266

Expositions, Imaginings, and Rhetorics: Formal Strategies in Documentary and Experimental Films 266

Elements of Science and Art 266

Expositional Practices 267

Imaginative Practices 268

Rhetorical Positions: Cinematic Investigators and Poets 270

IN FOCUS: Expositional, Imaginative, and Rhetorical Strategies in Sunless (Sans soleil, 1982) 272

VIEWING CUES: Expositions, Imaginings, and Rhetorics 275

Points of View: Values and Traditions of Documentary and Experimental Films 275

To Reveal and to Explan 276

Two Traditions: Social Documentaries and Avant-Garde Films 277

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Cinéma Vérité 278

IN FOCUS: Values and Traditions in The Man with the Movie Camera (1929) 282

VIEWING CUES: Documentary and Experimental Film Traditions and Values 285

Critical Voices: Maya Deren on “The Creative Use of Reality” 285

The Next Level: Additional Sources 287

8. Rituals, Conventions, Archetypes, and Formulas: Movie Genres 288

Key Objectives 288

The Foundations of Film Genre 290

Conventions, Formulas, and Expectations 290

A Short History of Film Genre 293

IN FOCUS: Conventions and Expectations in The Gold Rush (1925) 294

VIEWING CUES: Film Genre Conventions 296

Constellations of Movie Genres: Six Paradigms 297

Comedies 298

Westerns 300

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Local Genres 301

Melodramas 304

Musicals 306

Horror Films 308

Crime Films 310

IN FOCUS: Generic Chinatown (1974) 313

VIEWING CUES: Categorizing Films by Genre 315

Points of View: Values and Traditions of Film Genres 315

To Prescribe or to Describe 315

Two Traditions: Classical and Revisionist Genres 317

IN FOCUS: Values and Traditions in Vagabond (1986) 318

VIEWING CUES: Film Genre Traditions and Values 320

Critical Voices: Carol J. Clover on Gender and Slasher Films 320

The Next Level: Additional Sources 322

PART III

HISTORIES: HOLLYWOOD AND BEYOND 325

9. Conventional Film History: Evolutions, Masterpieces, and Periodization 327

Key Objectives 327

Film History as Evolution 328

Points of Origin 330

Progress and Conquest: More Reality, Money, and Sophistication 332

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Film Preservation and Archives 336

VIEWING CUES: A Film's Place in Film History 339

IN FOCUS: Constructing Origins in The Birth of a Nation (1915) 340

Film History as Masters and Masterpieces 342

Pioneers, Silent Masters, and European Influences: 1900–1920s 343

Studio Classics and Classicists: 1930s 345

Transitional and Turbulent Visions: 1940s–1950s 346

Rebels and Visionaries, Dealers and Deals: 1960s–2000s 348

IN FOCUS: The Mastery of Alfred Hitchcock 350

VIEWING CUES: Cinematic Masters and Masterpieces 352

Film History as Periodization 352

Early Cinema 353

Classical Cinema 355

Postwar Cinema 357

Contemporary Cinema 358

IN FOCUS: Periodization and Taxi Driver (1976) 360

VIEWING CUES: Periodization 362

Critical Voices: Thomas Schatz on “The New Hollywood” 362

The Next Level: Additional Sources 364

10. Global and Local: Inclusive Histories of the Movies 365

Key Objectives 365

Film History beyond Hollywood 366

Before World War II 367

After World War II 371

New German Cinema 372

Postwar Cinemas outside Europe 374

Third Cinema 375

Contemporary Global Cinema 376

IN FOCUS: Global Cinema: The Apple (1998) 380

VIEWING CUES: Film History beyond Hollywood 382

The Lost and Found of American Film History 383

The Women Who Made the Movies 384

African American Cinema 388

Orphan Films 391

IN FOCUS: Lost and Found: Within Our Gates (1920) 394

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Best Films Lists 396

VIEWING CUES: The Lost and Found of American Film History 398

Film, History, and Cultural Context 398

Ideology and Film: Celluloid Communism 399

Lesbian and Gay Film History 403

Representing Culture: Indigenous Media 408

IN FOCUS: Historical Context and Salt of the Earth (1953) 411

VIEWING CUES: Film, History, and Cultural Context 414

Critical Voices: Vivian Sobchack on the Writing of Film History 414

The Next Level: Additional Sources 415

PART IV REACTIONS: READING AND WRITING ABOUT FILM 417

11. Reading about Film: Critical Methods and Theories 418

Key Objectives 418

Concepts and Methods in Film Theory 419

Concepts of Specificity: The Cinematic Medium and Film Form 421

Comparative Methods: Authorship and Genre Theories 424

Authorship 424

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: Film Journals 428

Genre 432

VIEWING CUES: Authorship and Genre Theories 436

Film Theory and Historical Context 437

Early Film Theory 437

IN FOCUS: Authorship and Genre in Touch of Evil (1958) 438

Soviet Film Theory: Montage 442

Classical Film Theories: Realism and Formalism 443

VIEWING CUES: Approaching Theoretical and Scholarly Articles about Film 447

IN FOCUS: Coding Time in Timecode (2000) 448

Critical Questions in Contemporary Film Theory 450

Marxism, Structuralism, and Semiotics 450

Poststructuralism: Psychoanalysis, Apparatus Theory, and Spectatorship 455

Theories of Gender and Sexuality 457

New Directions in Film Studies 460

Cultural Studies 460

Film and Philosophy 467

Postmodernism and New Media 468

IN FOCUS: Clueless about Contemporary Film Theory? 470

VIEWING CUES: Contemporary Film Theory 472

Critical Voices: Christian Metz on Spectatorship 472

The Next Level: Additional Sources 473

12. Writing a Film Essay: Observations, Arguments, Research, and Analysis 474

Key Objectives 474

Writing an Analytical Film Essay 476

Personal Opinion and Objectivity 476

Identifying Your Readers 477

Elements of the Analytical Film Essay 479

VIEWING CUES: Writing an Analytical Film Essay 480

IN FOCUS: Analyzing Citizen Kane (1941) 481

Preparing to Write about a Film 484

Asking Questions 484

Taking Notes 484

Selecting a Topic 486

VIEWING CUES: Preparing to Write about a Film 487

IN FOCUS: Analyzing Character and Style in Sally Potter's Orlando (1993) 488

Writing a Film Essay 492

Interpretation, Argument, and Evidence 492

CULTURAL SPOTLIGHT: From Viewing a Film to Writing a Film Essay 495

Revision, Manuscript Format, and Proofreading	495
VIEWING CUES: Interpretation, Argument, and Evidence in a Film Essay	496
IN FOCUS: Interpretation, Argument, and Evidence in Rashomon (1950)	497
Researching the Movies	502
Distinguishing Research Materials	502
Using and Documenting Sources	504
IN FOCUS: From Research to Writing about The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari (1919)	507
VIEWING CUES: Using and Documenting Sources in a Film Essay	514
Critical Voices : Phillip Lopate on Pauline Kael	514
The Next Level : Additional Sources	516

Glossary 517

Index 529