

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	vii
Introduction: what is social capital and why does it matter?	1
How do networks make things happen?	2
Norms and networks in classical social theory	6
Interest in social capital	8
Aims of the book	11
1 From metaphor to concept	13
Bourdieu	16
Coleman	23
Putnam	32
What have the social capital classics added?	44
Key reading	47
2 Networks in use	48
Social capital and education	49
Connections in the economy	55
Benefits for health and well-being	63
Crime and deviancy	67
Refining the concept – reciprocity and trust	69
Towards a differentiated conception	72
Key reading	78
3 A walk on the dark side	79
Social capital and inequality	82
The perverse effects of social capital	92
Social capital's dark side	99
Key reading	100

4	Future tense or present perfect? Social capital in a changing world	101
	Family and intimate ties	104
	Active democratic citizenship	109
	Atomised connections in cyberspace: ships that pass in a byte?	119
	The end of communism	125
	Social capital in risk society: flexible friends?	128
	Key reading	131
5	Policy and politics: social capital in the real world	132
	Should we be wary of developing policies for social capital?	135
	The case for intervention	139
	Measuring social capital	142
	Operationalising policies for social capital	146
	Can governments create social capital?	154
	Key reading	156
	Conclusion	157
	Key reading	167
	RESOURCES ON THE INTERNET	168
	REFERENCES	169
	INDEX	189