

Contents

Foreword by Patricia Wasley	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction: Reconstructing Professional Identities Deborah Schifter	1
1. As Mathematical Thinkers: Confronting One's Own Mathematics Mis-Education	9
Pictures at an Exhibition: A Mathphobic Confronts Fear, Loathing, Cosmic Dread, and Thirty Years of Math Education Lisa Yaffee	10
Facing Racism in Mathematics Education Nora L. Toney	26
Connecting to Mathematics as Part of Learning to Teach Deborah Loewenberg Ball	36
2. As Managers of Classroom Process: Inventing New Patterns of Authority	46
The Search for the Perfect Resource Karen Schweitzer	47
Understanding Teaching/Teaching for Understanding Anne Marie O'Reilly	65
Learning While Doing: Understanding Early Efforts to Create New Practices of Teaching and Learning Mathematics for Understanding Ruth M. Heaton	74

3. As Monitors of Student Learning: Inquiring into Students' Mathematical Conceptions	81
A Year of Inquiry	82
Janice M. Szymaszek
Shaping Up	97
Christine D. Anderson
Conversations About Counting	113
Jessica Dobie Redman
Teachers Becoming Investigators of Their Students' Mathematical Conceptions	126
Stephen Lerman
4. The New Mathematics Pedagogy: An Open-Ended Practice	132
Making Graphs Is a Fun Thing to Do	133
Valerie Penniman
Math Journals: First Attempts in Third Grade	146
Deborah Carey O'Brien
Reflections on Practice: Two Steps Forward, One Step Back	157
Susan Jo Russell
Conclusion: Throwing Open the Doors	163
Deborah Schifter
Appendix A: A Writing Course for Teachers	167
Deborah Schifter
Appendix B: Writing and Reading Assignments for MPWP Courses	177
About the Contributors	183
Index	187