

Contents

Contributors	vii
Preface Joseph C. Salmons	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction Robert C. Ostergren and Heike Bungert	xv
Part I: The Premigration Situation
1. “Aus dem Wiedischen Land”: Emigration from the Westerwald to Wisconsin Anke Ortlepp	3
2. Before Cross Plains: The Immigrants from the Cologne Bay Ulrich Sanger	37
3. Using Archival Resources in Germany for Research Focused on Emigration from the Rhineland in the Nineteenth Century Ute Langer	57
Part II: The Migration Process
4. A Geographical Perspective on Nineteenth-Century German Immigration to Wisconsin Timothy Bawden	79

5.	The Wisconsin Commissioner of Emigration 1852–1855: An Experiment in Social and Economic Engineering and Its Impact on German Immigration to Wisconsin Johannes Strohschänk and William G. Thiel	93
6.	The Story of German Settlement in the Forests and on the Prairies of Wisconsin Scott A. Moranda	123
7.	Truthful Letters and Irresistible Wanderlust: The Emigration from Rhenish Hesse to Wisconsin Helmut Schmahl	145
Part III: The Experience with the Land in Wisconsin
8.	“Farm, so heißt in Amerika ein Gut”: Land and Agriculture in a Westerwald Settlement in Wisconsin Kevin Neuberger	163
9.	The Borders of the Holyland of East-Central Wisconsin M. Beth Schlemper	189
10.	Agriculture in the New World: A Comparative Analysis of Rhenish Prussians and Other Immigrant Groups in Cross Plains, Wisconsin Suzanne Townley	207
	A Transcontinental Regional Perspective on Migration: A Concluding Word Cora Lee Kluge and Joseph C. Salmons	237
	Index	241