Contents

List of Illustrations vii

Pronunciation of Special Turkish Letters viii

Acknowledgements ix

Introduction 1

1. Identity and Recognition 16

2. Going Public 37

3. Organizing Alevis 64

4. Crosscurrents of Identification 93

5. The Politics of Memory: Remembering Sivas 116

6. Ritual and Community: The Changing Meaning of Cem and Dede 145

7. Recognition and the Politics of Migration in Germany 178

8. Transnational Connections and the Claims of the Nation 209

Conclusion 253

Appendix 1: Organizations 263

Appendix 2: Glossary of Alevi and Turkish Terms 265

References 266

Index 284
Illustrations

Figures

2.1 Year of migration of members of Alevi associations in Hamburg 41
2.2 Program of the Alevi Culture Week 60
4.1 Is Alevism part of Islam? 101
4.2 Did Alevism historically originate from Islam? 102
5.1 Flyer for the commemoration of Sivas (front page), HAKM, 2001 123
5.2 Children present images of Sivas victims at a commemorative convention of the HAKM, 2001 126
5.3 Commemorative vigil in a pedestrian zone, Hamburg-Altona, 1999 128
6.1 Dede and Zakir at the cem of the HAKM, 2004 159
7.1 Naturalization of members of Alevi associations in Hamburg 200

Tables

2.1 Founding members of the Alevi Culture Group in Hamburg 57
3.1 Types of events organized by Alevi associations 81
6.1 Twelve duties in cem 148
7.1 Reasons for naturalization among Alevis in Hamburg 201