

Preface

MAJOR ASPECTS OF THE PSYCHOLOGY OF LANGUAGE	1
I. Introduction	1
II. Basic issues and their relationship	3
III. Three aspects of knowledge	7
IV. The structure of language acquisition	10
V. The structure of language use	19
VI. The nature of data	26
VII. Language change	32
UTTERANCE MEANING AND MENTAL STATES	39
FORMAL AND LEXICAL SEMANTICS	56
1. On the Nature of Semantics	56
2. Levels of Representation	59
3. Words and Concepts	63
4. Thematic Relations	69
5. Language and Thought	74
6. Appendix	75
BASIC ISSUES IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF WORD MEANING	80
1. Aims and positions	80
2. Lexical entries	81
3. Semantic and conceptual structure	89
4. Conceptual structure and mental world	94
5. Some remarks on conceptual structure	98
6. Further remarks on semantics and concepts	103
7. Semantics and pragmatics	111
8. What does it mean to learn a word?	114
9. The Semantization Task	122
10. The Mapping Task	127
11. Representation and operation	130
12. Types of lexical entries	137
13. Concluding Spotlight	151

	Seite
HOW ON-LINE IS LANGUAGE PROCESSING?
1. The Problem	164
2. Levels of understanding	164
3. Basic Assumptions	167
4. The Character of Structural Representations	171
5. Grammar and Processing	178
6. Scope Determination	195
7. Slips of the ear	214
8. Concluding Remarks	222
	226
LINGUISTICS AND LANGUAGE ERROR	248
1. The problem	248
2. Ordering errors	250
3. Selection errors	255
4. Blends	259
5. Some general remarks	265
6. Concluding remarks	268
Postscript	269