

Content

Preface . . . . .	V
Chapter 1: Problems of Meaning
H. Hörmann On the difficulties of using the concept of a dictionary – and the impossibility of not using it . . . . .	3
S. Wichter Inter- and intraindividual differences in meaning . . . . .	17
M. Bock On the “natural” meaning of acoustic signals . . . . .	29
G. Strube The latent semantics of verbal association. . . . .	56
W. Marx The meaning-confining function of the adjective. . . . .	70
H. Schnelle Some preliminary remarks on net-linguistic semantics. . . . .	82
Chapter 2: Sentence Processing
J.-F. Le Ny/L. Achour/M. Carfantan/J.-C. Verstiggel Elective decay of meaning in working memory and the process of discourse comprehension . . . . .	101
J. Engelkamp/H. D. Zimmer Foci of attention in comprehension and production of sentences. . . . .	119
Chapter 3: Text Processing
M. Wintermantel/U. Christmann Person description: Some empirical findings concerning the production and reproduction of a specific text type. . . . .	137

W. Schnotz
On the influence of text organization on learning outcomes. . . . .	152
G. Rickheit/H. Kock
Inference processes in text comprehension. . . . .	182
R. Weingarten/G. Rickheit/H. Strohner
Strategies of repeated text processing . . . . .	207
M. Bock
The influence of pictures on the processing of texts: reading time, intelligibility, recall, aesthetic effect, need for rereading. . . . .	218
S. Jörg
The semantic power of verbal and pictorial parts of situations. . . . .	237
H.-J. Heringer
Criteria of understanding and understandability. . . . .	259
J. S. Petöfi
Text, signification, models, and correlates. Some aspects of text comprehension and text interpretation . . . . .	266