

Contents

× Preface: Linguistic and anthropological approaches to cognition Robert E. MacLaury	vii
× Introduction: On construing the world John R. Taylor	1
× Seeing it in more than one way Eugene H. Casad	23
Possession and possessive constructions Ronald W. Langacker	51
What lack needs to have: A study in the cognitive semantics of privation Savas L. Tsohatzidis	81
The construal of cause: The case of cause prepositions René Dirven	95
Conceptual grammaticalization and prediction Bernd Heine	119
× Metaphors of anger in Japanese Keiko Matsuki	137
× Looking back at anger: Cultural traditions and metaphorical patterns Dirk Geeraerts–Stefan Grondelaers	153
× Anger: Its language, conceptualization, and physiology in the light of cross-cultural evidence Zoltán Kövecses	181
× The metaphorical conception of mind: “Mental activity is manipulation” Olaf Jäkel	197
Vantage theory Robert E. MacLaury	231

The terror of Montezuma: Aztec history, vantage theory, and the category of “person”
Jane H. Hill—Robert E. MacLaury	277
Selection of Japanese categories during social interaction
Munekazu H. Aoyagi	331
Genus, species, and vantages
Jeff Lansing	365
On construing the world of language
Nigel Love	377
Index of names	391
Subject index	396
Contributors	407