

Contents

Preface	viii
1. EDUCATION AND TECHNOLOGY	I
A Fragmented Learning Process
The Application of Technology
Rethinking the Teaching Process
Rethinking the Role of Technology
2. TECHNOLOGY AND THE DEVELOPING WORLD	12
Different Education Systems
A Different Role for Technology
What can the Technology do?
3. LANGUAGE TEACHING: THEORIES AND METHODS	24
Language Programmes on Television
The Theoretical Background
Language Teaching Methods
Selection and Grading of Language
Presentation and Learning of Language
Teaching and Practice Procedures
4. THE LANGUAGE SKILLS	39
Assembling a Language Course
A Course Analysis
Language Realization: Sounds and Symbols
Language Organization: Grammar
Meaning: Teaching and Practice
A Course Synthesis
5. TELEVISION AND THE LISTENING SKILL	49
Recognition of Sounds in Speech
Intonation and Stress
Varieties of Speech
Sound to Symbol

	Viewer Response
1	Recognition of Structures in Speech
	Understanding Meaning in Speech
	Word Relationships
	Content
6.	TELEVISION AND THE SPEAKING SKILL	66
	Problems of Viewer Participation
	Production of Speech Sounds
	Intonation and Stress
X	Production of Structures in Speech
	Saying what you Mean to Say
7.	TELEVISION AND THE READING SKILL	82
	The Physical Aspects of Reading
	Phonics
	Pre-reading training
	Recognition of the Graphic Symbols
	The Perception of Word Groups
	Varieties of Graphic Style
Y	The Recognition of Written Structures
	Viewer Response
	Reading for Understanding
8.	TELEVISION AND THE WRITING SKILL	107
	Problems of Using Television
	Sound to Symbol
	Letter Formation
	The Production of Written Structures
	Guided Composition
	Note-taking
9.	LINKING THE STUDIO AND THE LEARNER	120
	Supervised and Non-supervised learners
	Integration: the Supervised learner
	Integration: the Non-supervised learner
	Response: the Supervised learner
	Response: the Non-supervised learner
	Assessment: the Supervised learner
	Subjective Reports
	Objective Evaluation
	What went wrong?
	Assessment: the Non-supervised learner	