

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Outcasts, Dropouts, and Provocateurs: Nonconformists
Prepare the Terrain	5
1. The First World Congress of Free Artists	5
2. From Lettrism to Situationism	7
3. Situationist Practice	10
4. The Meaning of Cultural Revolt	14
5. Beat Poets	16
6. Literature and Theatre of Revolt	19
7. The Place of Cultural Critique	20
8. The First Transnational Youth Revolt	23
9. Marlon Brando Turns Communist	27
10. Beatniks, Hipsters, Existentialists	30
11. British Rock	32
12. Beat Culture in Italy	36
13. The Amsterdam Provos	38
2. Under the Cobblestones Lies the Beach: Student
Activism in the 1960s	54
1. Sit-ins, SNCC, and Freedom Rides	54
2. Mississippi Freedom Summer	57
3. The Berkeley Free Speech Movement	60
4. US Student Movements After Berkeley	65
5. The Peculiarities of Belgium	67
6. Leuven Vlaams	69
7. Mississippi on the Dijle	72
8. Sociology in Trento	74
9. Mobilizations and Reflections: Trento (and Italy), 1966–1967	77
10. Radicalization: Trento (and Italy), 1967–1968	81
11. The Shut-down of Higher Education in Italy: 1968	83
3. Vogliamo Tutto: The Working-Class Dimension of ‘1968’	93
1. The Valley of the Turón	93
2. Mobilizations in Underground Spain	97

3. French Workers in the Calvados	100
4. From Nanterre to the Sorbonne	102
5. The Genesis of a General Strike	104
6. The Meaning of the General Strike	106
7. French Workers After 1968	110
8. Italy's 'Creeping May'	111
9. Questioning Authority on the Factory Floor	115
10. The Revolution of the Carnations	118
4. Left, Left, Left: The Old, the New, and the Far Left	131
1. The Suez Crisis and Its Aftermath	131
2. A Social Democratic Foreign Policy?	135
3. Social Democracy's Domestic Agenda	136
4. Youth Revolt and the Old Left	138
5. Il Caso Manifesto	142
6. Intellectuals and the New Left	144
7. Marcuse and Mills	146
8. The Mediterranean New Left	148
9. Characteristics of the New Left	152
10. The Limits of New Left Organizational Practice	155
11. Maoism and Trotskyism	158
12. The Genesis of the Far Left	160
13. The Far Left as Inspiration	161
14. A Social Democratic Turn towards the Left?	163
15. The Promise of Eurocommunism?	164
Photo Essay: The Belgian Manifestation of '1968'	178
5. Participatory Democracy: The Meaning of '1968'	190
1. Measuring Failure and Success	190
2. Cultural Revolution and Material Gains	191
3. Participatory Democracy	194
4. Free Schools and Universities	198
5. An Experimental Laboratory in the Bois de Vincennes	201
6. The Alberoni Project	203
7. Participatory Democracy at the Point of Production	206
8. Participatory Democracy and the Left	212
9. Neighbourhood Associations in Iberia	212
10. The Commune of Nantes	215
11. Individual and Collective Liberation	216

Contents

ix

12. The Birth of Second-Wave Feminism	217
13. Caged Birds Break Free	219
Conclusion: A Moment of Crisis and Opportunity	228
1. A Tale of Two Europes	228
2. The Legacy of 1968	231
3. The Great Rehearsal?	235
Bibliographic Essay	241
Index	253