

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

1. Introduction 1
Craig E. Harline

I. THE WORK OF HERBERT H. ROWEN

2. Herbert H. Rowen and the Tradition of Early Modern History in the U.S. 13
Theodore K. Rabb
3. Herbert H. Rowen and the Dutch Republic 23
E. H. Kossmann
4. Selected Reviews of Rowen's Major Books 27

II. MAKING SENSE OF THE DUTCH REPUBLIC

5. The Dutch Revolt: What Kind of Revolution? 45
6. The Revolution That Wasn't: The Coup d'État of 1650 in Holland 63
7. Lieuwe van Aitzema: A Soured but Knowing Eye 83
8. John de Witt: The Makeshift Executive in a "Ständestaat" 99
9. Management of Estates in the Seventeenth Century:
John de Witt, the States of Holland and the States General 109
10. John de Witt and the Triple Alliance 121
11. The Peace of Nijmegen: De Witt's Revenge 139

III. ABSOLUTISM BETWEEN THEORY AND PRACTICE

12. Arnauld de Pomponne: Louis XIV's Moderate Minister	151
13. Louis XIV and Absolutism	171
14. "L'état c'est à moi": Louis XIV and the State	185
15. A Second Thought on Locke's First Treatise	199

IV. THE DUTCH REPUBLIC IN COMPARATIVE PERSPECTIVE

16. Proto-Jacobinism in the Dutch Republic	205
17. The Union of Utrecht and the Articles of Confederation, the Batavian Constitution and the American Constitution: A Double Parallel	215
18. John Adams' Vision of the Dutch Republic	229

V. ON HISTORIANS AND THE PRACTICE OF HISTORY

19. A Sketch of Pieter Geyl	245
20. The Historical Work of Pieter Geyl	253
21. William F. Church: A Historian's Historian	273
22. Selected Reviews by Herbert H. Rowen
A. Geyl on Huizinga	281
B. Politics in the Dutch Republic	284
C. Dutch Cultural and Economic Life	291
D. The Peace of Westphalia Revisited	300
Bibliography of the Publications of Herbert H. Rowen
A. Book Authored	307
B. Book Translated and/or Edited	307
C. Articles	308
D. Book Reviews	309

Index	313
-------	-----