

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction	ix
1 The nature and extent of domestic violence	1
The nature of domestic violence	1
The power and control wheel	7
Diversity in women's experiences of domestic violence	9
Domestic violence as gender violence	17
Domestic violence as crime	20
Prevalence of domestic violence	23
Conclusion	31
2 Impacts, coping and surviving domestic violence	37
The impacts on women	37
Injuries and ill-health	38
Recovering from the health impacts of domestic violence	44
Why don't women just leave?	46
Implications for practice	54
The impacts on children	56
Children living with domestic violence	64
Post-separation violence	66
The direct abuse of children during contact visits	69
Understanding children's perspectives – implications for practice	73
3 Legal responses to domestic violence	85
The nature of law in liberal democratic theory	85
Feminist perspectives	87
Legal change in the 20th Century	92
Feminist jurisprudence	93
The advantages and disadvantages of civil legislation	98
The criminal law	99
Domestic homicide	101
Family law	104

vi CONTENTS

	The Children Act (1989)	105
	The law & child contact in cases of domestic violence	107
	Child protection (Public law)	110
	Conclusions	111
4	Policing, prosecution and the courts	117
	Policing domestic violence	117
	Innovate policing practice	122
	Policing and attrition	130
	Further policing initiatives	133
	Prosecution and the courts	135
	Specialist domestic violence courts	137
	New sentencing guidance	140
	Conclusions	141
5	Preventing domestic violence	147
	The need for primary prevention	147
	Perpetrator programmes – tertiary prevention	152
	Do perpetrator programmes work?	159
	Perpetrator programmes, violent fathers and children’s safety	162
	Conclusions	164
6	Community responses to domestic violence	169
	Customary community responses	169
	Women’s Aid	170
	Multi-agency responses	177
	Multi-agency practices today	182
	Multi-agency risk assessment conferences	183
	Conclusion	187