

CONTENTS

|   |    |
|---|----|
| Introduction  | v  |
| DISCUSSION OF THE LANGUAGE PLANNING FIELD                           |    |
| Joan Rubin  |    |
| Language planning: Discussion of some current issues                | 1  |
| Björn H. Jernudd  |    |
| Language planning as a type of language treatment                   | 11 |
| Paul L. Garvin  |    |
| Some comments on language planning                                  | 24 |
| REPORTS OF RESEARCH IN PROGRESS                                     |    |
| Dayle Barnes  |    |
| Language planning in mainland China: Standardization                | 34 |
| Jonathan Pool   |    |
| Mass opinion on language policy: The case of Canada                 | 55 |
| Gary J. Parker  |    |
| Notes on the linguistic situation and language planningin Peru  | 67 |
| T. P. Gorman  |    |
| Language allocation and language planning in adeveloping nation | 72 |

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Joshua A. Fishman   |     |
| The international research project on languageplanning processes (IRPLPP) | 83  |
|   |     |
| Aaron Bar-Adon  |     |
| The rise and decline of an Upper-Galilee dialect                              | 86  |
|   |     |
| APPENDIX  |     |
|   |     |
| General principles for the cultivation of good language                       | 102 |
| Translated by Paul L. Garvin  |     |