

CONTENTS

|                                                                                                                                                   |      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Preface                                                                                                                                           | xii  |
| A Note on the Texts                                                                                                                               | xvii |
| 1 · Poema rhetoricum et rhetor poeticus : The Forming of a Continental Humanist Poetics                                                    | 3    |
| 2 · Sancte Socrates, ora pro nobis : Erasmus, the Encomium Moriae , and the Poetics of Wordplay                                     | 46   |
| 3 · Della mortal oblivione questa chiara memoria : Baldassare Castiglione, Il Libro del Cortegiano , and the Poetics of Eloquence   | 87   |
| 4 · Marguerite de Navarre's Heptaméron des Nouvelles : The Poetics of Metaphysics and the Fiction of L'inquiétude                   | 135  |
| 5 · Abstracteur de Quinte Essence and Docteur en Médecine : Rabelais's Fiction of Summa Humanistica and the Poetics of Copia | 181  |
| 6 · Post tenebras spero lucem : Cervantes, El Ingenioso Hidalgo , and the Poetics of Imitatio                                       | 235  |
| 7 · La maladie naturelle de leur esprit : Contestation, Subversion, and the Decline of Continental Humanist Poetics                        | 307  |
| Notes                                                                                                                                             | 335  |
| Index                                                                                                                                             | 355  |