

CONTENTS

	Page
List of Tables	v
List of Figures	vii
Introduction	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Members of the Working Party	xii
The Aims of the Working Party
PART 1 Thinking it Through	1
I The Beginnings	1
II Double Base	3
III Differing Skills	6
IV Differing Ways of Knowing	8
V Differing Behaviours	12
VI Internal Uses	16
VII External Uses	22
VIII Summary	28
The Research Report
PART 2 Development and Evaluation (by W Bryan Dockrell and Patricia M Broadfoot)	29
I Introduction	29
II Scottish School Reports—an Overview	30
—type of information collected
—ways of collecting information
—types of reports
—summary
III Ideas Translated into Practice—The Design of the Assessment	36
—what forms are needed?
—the choice of assessment categories
—the choice of assessment styles and procedures
—the evolution of the assessment form
—summary
IV From Drawing Board to Classroom	46
—the feasibility study
—the field trials
—guides for teachers
—summary

	Page
V Profiles in Practice—The Interpretation of Profiles	52
—the basic skills section
—the performance section
—the work-related characteristics
—some examples
VI Pros and Cons—What the Teachers Felt	63
—results of an open-ended questionnaire
—reaction of teachers in the other schools
making and collating the assessments
the content of the assessment difficulties encountered
recording of subject achievement
a suitable scale
work-related observations
summary
general questions
the leaving report
—guidance teachers' reactions
—summary and conclusions
VII Significant Others	92
—parents
—pupils
—employers and tertiary educators
—other comments
—summary
VIII Facts and Figures—An Analysis of the Assessments Made	100
—work-related observations
—skill and achievement assessment
—summary
—reliability
—validity
PART 3 Conclusions and Recommendations	125
PART 4 Notes on Using the SCORE Profile Assessment System	128
—how to make the assessments
—how to use the profiles
—the school leaving report
—guides for the assessment of basic skills

	Page
Appendices
A Schools Co-operating in the Research	149
B Bodies Consulted	151
C Examples of Teachers' Subject Guides	151
D Additional Tables and Figure	164
References	169
Index	171