

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction

I. Background

1. Historical Background of the Psychology of Moral Development 3-18
by Sheridan Patrick McCabe
2. A Phenomenological Approach Toward the Moral Person 19-42
by William F. Kraft

II. Aspects of an Integrated Theory of Moral Development

3. Moral Reasoning 45-64
by Sheridan Patrick McCabe
4. Moral Orientation: Alternative Perspectives of Men and Women 65-89
by Mary Brabeck
5. Emotions and Morality 91-133
by Mary Brabeck and Margaret Gorman
6. Moral Choice: A Psychological Perspective 135-151
by Eileen A. Gavin
7. Moral Character: A Social Learning Perspective 153-182
by Lynn Mather Musser and Christopher Leone
8. Moral Character: Story-Telling and Virtue 183-199
by William Kirk Kilpatrick
9. The Social Environment and Moral Action 201-235
by Christopher Leone and William G. Graziano

III. The Acting Person as the Focus for Integration

10. The Acting Person as Moral Agent: Erikson as the Starting Point for an Integrated Psychological Theory of Moral Development 239-273
by Richard T. Knowles
11. Clarification of an Integrated Theory of Moral Development: A Dialogue with White's Concept of Competence 275-292
by Richard T. Knowles
12. Life-long Moral Development 293-352
by Margaret Gorman

Index

353-364