

Contents

Introduction	vii
1 Adult learning in postmodernity	1
The socio-economic dimension of modernity and postmodernity	2
Postmodernism and incredulity	5
Changing conceptions of knowledge, challenges to modernist education	9
Consumption and knowledge in the postmodern	13
The challenge of adult learning	22
An uncertain prospect	26
2 Adult learning for citizenship	28
Adult education traditions and citizenship	30
Citizenship and education in a postmodern world	37
Adult learning for citizenship	40
Conclusion	49
3 Governmentality and practice	51
Durkheim	52
Foucault	56
Bourdieu	59
Institutions and missions: a new configuration of practice?	62
Individuals and profiles: governing the subject	65
Conclusion	67
4 Disciplines and disciplinarity: knowledge and power	68
Subsiding foundations	68
The power of psychology/psychology as power	73
Disciplinary power	76
Competences and confession	82
The place of disciplines	88
5 Reconfiguring the 'other': self and experience in adult learning	93
The self in adult education's traditions of learning	93

	The place of experience	100
	Experience, pedagogy and social practices	105
	Lifestyle practices	107
	Vocational practices	110
	Confessional practices	113
	Critical practices	115
	Rethinking experience in the context of contemporary adult learning	117
	Reconfiguring the self and experience within the postmodern	120
6	Reconceptualising theory and practice	122
	Theorists and practitioners	122
	Limitations of technical-rationality	125
	Theory and practice in teaching	127
	Reconsidering the nature of practice	133
	Metapractice	139
7	The reflective practitioner revisited	142
	The argument for reflection-in-action	143
	Schon as a theorist	145
	Schon's methodology	149
	Perceptions of reflective practice: four cases	153
	Reflections on the cases	166
	Conclusion	168
8	Changing paradigms and traditions of research	171
	Rigorous research	172
	Positivist/empiricist epistemology and research	173
	Hermeneutic/interpretive epistemology	181
	Research through critical theory	186
9	Overstepping the limits: new approaches to research	191
	Emancipatory research	191
	Questions for participatory research	201
	Some features of a postmodern approach	203
10	Writing and learning about research	212
	Methodology and the power of the text	214
	Relocating the self in research	216
	The research trajectory	218
	Research as narrative	222
	Implications for teaching about research as reflective practice: two examples	227
	Conclusion	232
	References	233
	Index	242