

Contents

| | |
|---|----|
| Notes on contributors | ix |
| Preface | xi |
| 1 Using informal education | 1 |
| Tony Jeffs and Mark Smith | |
| Informal education and other educational forms | 1 |
| Characteristics of informal education | 6 |
| The formal and the informal | 13 |
| The problem of curricula | 14 |
| Content, direction and process | 17 |
| Identity, personality and role | 19 |
| In conclusion | 23 |
| 2 Personality and curriculum | 24 |
| Anne Foreman | |
| Curriculum – the youth work approach | 26 |
| Youth work and experiential learning | 28 |
| The cult of the ‘character’ | 28 |
| The time factor and learning from each other | 30 |
| Informal education and adolescence | 33 |
| Strengthening the curriculum content? | 34 |
| 3 Informal education in residential work with adults | 36 |
| Mal Blackburn and Don Blackburn | |
| The rise of residential care | 36 |
| The shift to community care | 39 |
| Behaviourist approaches | 40 |
| Normalization programmes and the use of the informal | 41 |
| Informal education and residential work | 42 |

| | | |
|---|---|-----|
| | The low status of the residential contribution | 46 |
| 4 | Informal education with young women in the community | 49 |
| | Glynis Francis | |
| | The experience of being an informal educator | 50 |
| | Informal education and social relations | 53 |
| | Young women and informal education | 54 |
| | Prioritizing | 56 |
| | Placing young women's experiences at the centre | 58 |
| 5 | Informal education: A place in the new school curriculum? | 61 |
| | David Burley | |
| | The attractions and distractions of informal education | 63 |
| | The relationship of informal education to secondary schooling | 70 |
| | Informal education through community education | 72 |
| | Conclusion | 74 |
| 6 | Neighbourhood, crime and informal education | 75 |
| | Debbie Saddington | |
| | The new focus | 75 |
| | Neighbourhood-based informal education in practice | 77 |
| | Aspects of locally based informal education | 79 |
| | The personality of the worker | 80 |
| | Understanding groups | 81 |
| | Workers, agencies and neighbourhoods | 83 |
| | The nature of programmes | 84 |
| | Dilemmas and limitations | 87 |
| | In conclusion | 88 |
| 7 | Informal education – a Christian perspective | 89 |
| | John W. Ellis | |
| 8 | Working with carers | 100 |
| | Pauline Gertig | |
| | Behind the rhetoric | 101 |
| | Casework and informal education | 103 |
| | Limitations of the casework approach | 105 |
| | Relatives' support groups as a medium for informal education | 107 |
| | Advantages of group work for carers | 111 |
| | Ideological difficulties for the social worker | 111 |
| 9 | Where practice enlightens theory and theory enriches practice | 113 |
| | Elizabeth Afua Sinclair | |

| | |
|----------------------------------|-----|
| Historical influences | 113 |
| Expectations | 115 |
| Choosing informal learning | 116 |
| The process | 117 |
| Informal networks | 121 |
| 10 Educating informal educators | 124 |
| Tony Jeffs and Mark Smith | |
| Avoiding informal education | 125 |
| Training for failure | 128 |
| Educating for informal education | 134 |
| Conclusion | 142 |
| Bibliography | 144 |
| Index | 151 |