

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Notes on Contributors	viii
Introduction Karen Throsby and Flora Alexander	1
Part I Lived Experience
1 'Turning a Pretty Girl into a Killer': Women, Violence and Clandestine Operations during the Second World War Juliette Pattinson	11
2 'I Still Sort of Flounder Around in a Sea of Non-Language': The Constraints of Language and Labels in Women's Accounts of Woman-to-Woman Partner Abuse Rebecca Barnes	29
3 Cultural Transformations and Gender Violence: South Asian Women's Experiences of Sexual Violence and Familial Dynamics Bipasha Ahmed, Paula Reavey and Anamika Majumdar	44
4 Sexual Trafficking: A New Sexual Story? Alison Jobe	66
5 'That's a Bit Drastic': Risk and Blame in Accounts of Obesity Surgery Karen Throsby	83
6 The Promise of Understanding: Sex, Violence, Trauma and the Body Jane Kilby	100
Part II Representations
7 'It's Wrong for a Boy to Hit a Girl Because the Girl Might Cry': Investigating Primary School Children's Attitudes Towards Violence Against Women Nancy Lombard	121

8	Images of Abusers: Stranger-Danger, the Media, and the Social Currency of Everyday Knowledge Jenny Kitzinger	139
9	Female-On-Male Violence: Medical Responses and Popular Imagination Jarmila Mildorf	157
10	Male-On-Male Violence Against Women: Gender Representation and Violence in Rebecca Prichard's Fair Game Richard A. Bryan	171
11	'He Could See Her No Longer': The Negation of Femininity Through Violence in Ian McEwan's Fiction Fiona Tolan	186
12	Thelma and Louise and the Politics of Excess Alex Tate	200
13	Slap and Tickle: Violence as Fun in the Movies Jenny O'Connor	214
	Conclusion Flora Alexander and Karen Throsby	229
	Index	233